Bible Comment:

Paul Saw Christianity as War Against Evil

"STAND, therefore." This was Saint Paul's exhortation to the Christians at Ephesus after he had urged them to "put on the whole armor of God," so that they might "withstand in the evil day, and having done all, stand."
That Paul should have seen the Christian life as warfare is not to be wondered at. His whole course was beset with enemies and persecutions.
To the Christians, to whom Paul wrote, life was also a warfare. They may have been free from the most serious persecutions that beset Paul, but they were subject to persecution.
There were hazards in being a Christian. The days, as Paul says, were evil. The pagan environment was hostile and full of temptations of the flesh and of the spirit.
Paul was insistent upon the Christian warfare, and, like a great military leader, he was deeply concerned about preparation, equipment, indoctrination and rousing words of inspiration and encouragement.
And in all this his own example is never lacking. That is a quality of great leaders.
Is the Christian life still a warfare today? It is a significant and important question.
Hostile forces and temptations are no less real, though they may seem less evident and more subtle.
It may be said that we do not think of the Christian warfare as precisely, and as such, as it is set forth in New Testament days.
But this may be because we lack something of the vision that inspired Paul and the early disciples; that we do not see, as they did, the need of warfare, with the call of duty and the call to greatness.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES
"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read at Christian Science services Sunday.
Man's God-given dominion over materialism, including the so-called laws of chance and misfortune, is brought out in the readings from the Bible, among which is the account of Paul's restoration of Eutychus, the young man who "fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead." (Acts 20).
Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (424:5): "Accidents are unknown to God, or immortal Mind, and we must leave the mortal basis of belief and unite with the one Mind, in order to change the notion of chance to the proper sense of God's unerring direction and thus bring out harmony."

Baxter presented a 25 year service pin to Mr. Gleason and

Saves And Saves, Wins New Bicycle

Ralph Puls, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Puls of Manley, Nebr., has a new bicycle but it took a lot of gathering up tin.

With the help of friends and relatives Ralph gathered a bushel and a half, amounting to 7,133 separated pieces, of tin strips off of coffee cans and jar labels and entered them in a contest held by an Omaha coffee company Christmas contest. He was the highest contributor of the strips, plus jar labels, at three Omaha theaters Saturday afternoon.
