T. E. FENTON, Mgr.

Sal. Mil. Pstg.	433.63	Gov. Victor Anderson presented a budget to the Legislature totalling $193 million, or $1 million less than outgoing Gov. Robert Crosby recommended before his term ended. However, the Anderson budget probably will go up to $214 million of certain taxes and levies are re-acted.
Thomas S. Solomon County Court fees	55.10	Major new suggestions by the governor was for an "operating reserve fund." This would be an emergency fund to meet needs which come up in the state from time to time. In the past several special sessions of the Legislature have had to be called because no such emergency fund was available.
Standard Blue Print Co. Sup.	13.45	Gov. Anderson suggested that the fund could be largely made up of the "unexpended balances" the agencies have at the end of each fiscal biennium. Usually these are reappropriated but because they are so difficult to estimate the agencies often have more left than the Legislature had anticipated. That means the agency has more money to spend than the Legislature intended.
Standard Register Co. Sup.	315.80	The new governor also suggested a central personnel office for hiring state employees and job classification.
W. A. Swatek Hdw. Sup.	12.35	His biggest cuts were $550,000 from the Board of Control budget, $150,000 for a new governor's mansion suggested by Crosby, and $483,000 from the Safety Patrol budget (money earmarked for additional patrolmen).

were from western Nebraska where most of the lands lie. On the other hand there was a block of 22 votes against the sale. Out of a 43 member Legislature that is enough to be the majority and block any bill. The consolation for western Nebraska's unhappy about the present school land situation is that there were 13 senators who listed themselves as undecided. If enough of these could be wooed, there was a chance that some laws could be passed modifying some of the present practices of administering the land. School land leaseholders have complained most about the methods of leasing and appraising no win operation.

The Car Stretch

All the cars and trucks exported from New York harbor each year placed end to end, would stretch from Manhattan to Indianapolis, Indiana, says the National Geographic Society. Mechanized output of coal reached a new record high in 1953 when 84.2 per cent of all coal produced underground and at strip mines was loaded mechanically. In 1943 only 55.8 per cent of all coal produced was mechanically loaded. But in 1955, experts predict, the total will rise to 88.5 per cent.

Gov. Anderson stepped quietly but firmly into the Penitentiary controversy, urging the Board of Control quickly to hire a penal director over the state's prisons. He also backed up the board in its decision to keep Warden Herbert Hann at the Penitentiary lest inmates feel they had won a victory by getting an ouster of prison officials.
