Hope Exists For Palsied Says Foundation

OMAHA.—According to available statistical information, the state of Nebraska has a potential case-load of about 4,000 cerebral palsied, states Mrs. Ben H. Cowdery, state president of United Cerebral Palsy of Nebraska, Inc.

The accepted formula for determining the case-load in any area is three cerebral palsied for each 1,000 population. One-third of these will probably be under age 21.

The formula was the result of extensive research by Dr. Winthrop Morgan Phelps, noted specialist in the treatment of cerebral palsy.

"More hope exists for the cerebral palsied child today than at any time in history," says Mrs. Cowdery, one of the originators of the United Cerebral Palsy organization in Nebraska. In order for UCP of Nebraska to determine the scope of its program, an accurate accounting of the state's cerebral palsy case-load is necessary. The president explains, "We don't want to overexpand our program, but we certainly want to provide adequate service and facilities for all known cases."

UCP of Nebraska will cooperate with all related private and governmental agencies and professional fields in accomplishing its objectives. Incorporated under Nebraska statutes March 25, 1954, UCP of Nebraska has only one paid staff member, its executive director, James Norvell.

Cerebral palsy is a general term for a group of disorders, caused by injury to the brain's motor center. The affliction can result from damage incurred before, during or after birth. It can happen to any age and to any race, color, creed, or social strata.
