Sophomore Girls Learn About Kids

MAKE MONEY IN JAIL
WASHINGTON — A prison is certainly one of the last places you would expect to find a counterfeiting plant, but Secret Service officials have turned up two of them—one in a New Jersey State prison, where six counterfeit $1 plates were found, and in Mexico City, where a notorious bogus-money maker was caught printing money on a portable press in his cell.
