THROW $360 AWAY
Shawnee, Okla. — Disgusted that they found only a few paltry pennies in a cash register they had sneaked out of a downtown shop, burglars dumped the register on the shore of nearby Lake Shawnee. Two months later, two boys found the register and, toying with it, discovered an envelope containing $360 in a secret compartment. The money was returned to the owner.

Legislative SIDELIGHTS..

by BERNIE CAMP
Information Director
Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation

More Members: Better Pay
Almost every recent session of the Nebraska legislature has seen at least one bill submitted to provide a salary increase for members of the legislature. Either in combination or separate have been recommendations to increase the length of the term and the number of legislators.

Each time the matter has come to a vote, the citizens of Nebraska have decided against change, generally by a narrow margin, indicating to supporters of change "voters did not know the full story."

If the legislature agrees with Senators Dwight Burney, Hartington, Donald McGinley, Ogallala, and Charles Tyrdik, Omaha, voters again will have an opportunity to express themselves on a lengthened term and salary increase for legislators. LB 83, a Constitutional Amendment, provides for a four-year legislation term and a salary of $1,500. Voters would express themselves in November, 1956, and, if the vote was favorable, the amendment would go into effect immediately. Legislators elected from odd-numbered districts in 1956 would serve two years and even-numbered districts four years. Thereafter, each legislator would be elected for a four-year term.

There are arguments for and against both the lengthened term and the increased salary.

First, a member of the legislature who is doing a good job ought to be retained in office as long as voters can prevail upon him to serve. A four-year term eliminates the necessity of campaigning every time he serves in the Legislature. On the other hand, the undesirable legislator, who might be more readily turned out of office with a two-year term, is perpetuated and protected in office against the wishes of his constituents.

Second, $348 a month (or $1,744 a year) is pretty poor pay for a legislator who does a good job. The average regular session of the legislature is five months, so $1,744 a term works out to about $348 a month. If there are no special sessions, a good legislator is making a real sacrifice to spend five months (or more) on the law-making job. But a poor legislator is overpaid.

Perhaps the argument shouldn't be resolved on a basis of desirable and undesirable legislators. After all, voters get the kind of legislators and legislation they are interested in having. Voters make the choice of legislators; and if the choice is wrong have to blame their own failure to take interest in candidates.

The fairer answer probably is to assume that most legislators are deserving men and women, who need more appreciation of their efforts; and one way to show this appreciation is by a salary increase; and if it will improve legislative service an extended term.

On a basis of five months work in two years, $1,500 a year is $800 a month—too little pay for the sacrifices made by a good legislator; much more than a poor legislator deserves; it's true, but the overpaid legislators still are a low percentage minority. Too often, we being human, credit the minority of failures, with greater weight by far than they deserve.

PILOT TRAINING
An all-out Federal training program to prevent the United States from becoming a nation with thousands of planes and no pilots has been urged by the Civil Aviation Medical Association. Dr. Gerald S. Bakestoe, association president, warned that the current shortage of pilots was "appalling" and "the greatest problem in the nation today." If it is not solved, he says, "the nation's defenses will be in a bad way."
