

A rush of rain on the city hall roof Tuesday night at about 11 o'clock caused Plattsmouth city council to pull chins out of hands and quickly order the bills paid so they could dash home and enjoy a thunderstorm which brought 1.60 inches to the city, the most in well over a month.

The rain muddled up a number of Plattsmouth streets and solved part of a problem for the council pertaining to the same roads.

Back-to-School Days, when a multitude of bargains on Plattsmouth merchants shelves will be displayed, aimed at values for children who are starting to school in slightly over two weeks. School begins in Plattsmouth on Aug. 29 and in some rural schools too.

Friday and Saturday will be the first two days of the promotion sponsored by the retail division of the Plattsmouth Chamber of Commerce. Most merchants will carry the special values over to next week.

Special lay-way plans are in effect in most stores Friday and Saturday to make the plan more convenient to parents and other purchasers.

Today's Journal has a large list of advertising directed toward the Back-to-School Days program.
