Bible Comment Bear in Mind Lesson in Genesis

THE essential truth of the Genesis story, with its allegory of the serpent and the apple and the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil, is that man sinned and fell and that the essence of sin is disobedience to the divine command.

Genesis represents man's sin as eating of the forbidden fruit, and the fact that in his disobedience man became conscious of wrong, and a moral being. This led some to say that "the fall was a fall upward"—that sin is a sort of lesser good—a factor in human progress.

This supposition may sound plausible and pleasant, but it doesn't accord with the Bible or the facts of life. When man disregards God's commandments we see how fiendishly he can treat his fellow men. There is no fall upward in such fiendishness.

Adam and Eve lost the idyllic Garden of Eden, but can we not see in that a symbol of the Eden of peace, contentment and happiness that man has lost today through sin and selfishness, hatred and strife?

If it were not for the fact that over against man's sin and failure stand God's promises and God's redeeming grace, man must have perished completely long ago.

Man has sinned and failed, true. But God is not dead. His promises are fulfilled in countless numbers, who love Him and who love their fellow men.

They are the hope and assurance of the world's salvation.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Bawer Eddy will be read the following (347:14-17): "Christ, as the spiritual or true idea of God, comes now as of old, preaching the gospel to the poor, healing the sick, and casting out evils."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (45:2): "Thou art fairer than the children of men: grace is poured into thy lips: therefore God hath blessed thee for ever."
