

Mrs. Elmore Saltmarsh Is To Represent The Journal In The Louisville Vicinity

LOUISVILLE — The appointment of Mrs. Elmore Saltmarsh of Louisville as area correspondent and representative of the Plattsmouth Journal was announced today by News Editor Bill Burton.

Mrs. Saltmarsh will begin her duties immediately.

The Louisville woman will serve as a reporter for the Louisville area. Residents in that village who wish to have articles printed in the Journal are asked to telephone Mrs. Saltmarsh at Louisville 3011.

Mrs. Saltmarsh will also solicit classified and display advertising and handle circulation in the Louisville area. Orders for fast service in job printing may also be placed with her.

Her appointment is another step in the Journal's overall program to bolster its service to the entire county.

The Journal already distributes more than 3,600 copies reaching every hook and nook of the county. Its total circulation far eclipses that of other county papers combined.
