

Blue Devil Class Prophecy Sees Into Future

It is May 18, 1966, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe York are sitting at home in their living room. As we enter we hear that they are discussing the various TV programs that are on that night. Joe rises, walks over to the TV set, and turns it on. The time is a little before 6:30 p.m. and as the picture clears, we watch the end of "This Is A Great??? Life!!!" program with Deana French as Dennis, Jim Ulrich as Uncle Earl, Dan Huebner as Steve, and June Wagner as Mom. At 6:30 p.m. the program changes to "Private Secretary" with Mr. Peter Sands played by Don Farris, Miss Susie McNamara played by Beverly Sprick and Miss Vi Praskins played by Lois Gopen. Mr. Sands is trying desperately to get the production rights for "Snipe Hunting In Africa" which was written by Vernon Kaffenberger and stars Bill Gansmer and Sandra Burch.

Mrs. York, now wanting to watch her favorite musical show, turns to another channel for the Ed Sullivan Show featuring Ron Nichols, who replaced Ed Sullivan. Ron is introducing one of his star attractions, which, lo and behold, is now the world famous PHS Sextet with Minnie Etta Frazer, Beverly Harris, Deanne Hutton, Carolyn Larsen, Brenda Ofe and Nancy Simoneit. During the commercial, we find Shirley Traut and Nancy Holman demonstrating the new Super Atomic Lincoln Space Car which last year broke all the mileage tests to Mars. The next attraction on the show is the famous ballet star "Susette Feriece", formerly known as Janice Wiles, whose accompanist is that wonderful pianist, Ann Winscot.

At 7:30 p.m., Joe switches to the other channel to watch the last part of Colgate Comedy Hour, which features Jeannie Newton and her fast tapping routine, accompanied by the great concert pianist Margaret Eiting. The next program is "I Love Loosely", featuring the lovable, charming, and fascinating couple, Jo Ann Livingston and Ed Egenberger in another one of their lovable adventures with their landlords, Carol Patschies and Herman Weber.

Joe, overcoming Mrs. York's objections, insists on watching his favorite mystery, "The Line Up," starring Larry Wysel and Bill Weiss as the two trustworthy? loyal? and hard working??? policemen, who attempt to break up a vicious gang of kidnapers trying to steal the dirty bird from George Gobel's show, which has been taken over by Don Gerbeling. They catch suspicious characters, among whom are Jim Hanika, Lynn Fitzgerald, Gary Newburn, Francis Gochenour and Ron Van Ackern. These men?? are found guilty and are sentenced to twenty lashes with a wet noodle.

Mr. and Mrs. York are not able to decide between "The Medic," featuring the eminent Doctors Sally Amato and Joanne Keeley, who are trying to solve a baffling case of Arteriosclerosis of the Cranium, and "The Big Story," with Don Beckman and his secretary Pat Hull. So they watched "This Is Your Life" with the honored guest being Miss Jessie Whelan, whose life as Senior Class Sponsor at PHS is portrayed. Several of the graduated PHS students are there.

Among them are Joyce Fitzgerald, President of the United Gum Chewers Association; Dean Biles, who has advanced to the President of the Hot Rod Club, and Don Parriott, Producer of the renowned Broadway hit, "Arsenic and Old Lace."

The program is now interrupted with an advertisement by Pat Carr who is demonstrating "Bubbles" shampoo.

The time is 10:00 p.m., time for the weather, news, and sports with Weldon Stoehr and his Weather Bird Beannie (played by Darrel O'Neal). Windy Lorin (Toman), News Commentator, gives his view point on the latest up-to-date news story, The Greatest Presidential Race of the Century, "Will Tom Kraeger run for the President of the Pea Pickers Union or will Madam (Phyllis) Martin be nominated by her party?" Another top news headline is: "The Continental (Roger Wehrlein) has been seen in his late model Jaguar with Hollywood's two most prominent young stars, Rose Mary Nelson and Yvonne Fuller."

Giving the Woman's view on Fashions is Rosalyn Koubek with her models, Karen Jacobs, Nancy Painter, Shirley Eledge and Kay Kaffenberger. Sport Commentator, Vernon Aylor, interviews the All-American Stars: baseball, Denny Hirz; basketball, Joe Grauf; and football, Lorin Haase. The winners of the Stock Car Races — Gary Younker and Larry Meisinger; the winners of the Powder Puff Race — 1st place, Shirley Hild; 2nd place, Juanita Campbell; tie for 3rd, Betty Thimman and Barbara Lanum. Newest Olympic Volley Ball Stars — Donna Cooper and Cecelia Forbes.

At 10:30 p.m. we see "Big Town with Ronald (Foto) Furse as the daring young reporter, Steve Wilson and Beverly Sullivan as his secretary, Lorille. They are trying to solve the exciting case of "Who Hit Horrible Hanna on Her Hard Head With The Heavy Hammer?"

The late show is a Cowboy Classic, starring Banjo Ulrich as the tall, dark and handsome stranger saving the young, innocent ranch owner's daughter, Shirley Sudduth, from having the mortgage foreclosed on her ranch by the ornery and no good "Rusty" Snodgrass.

Just as the cattle stampede is heading for little Shirley, and Banjo is riding gallantly toward her, the TV tube breaks. Mrs. York tells Joe about the programs she saw in the afternoon.

"Well, first I watched "Minnie's Kitchen" with Minnie Hoschar and her two assistants, Betty Piper and Betty Morris. After that your niece, Sandra Sue, watched "Miss Devil" (Judy Sikora). Then I watched Juvenile Jury with the moderator, Mr. C. A. Weddel. And so, with Mrs. York's resume of the afternoon activity along with a ruptured TV tube, the evening closes. Sandra Sue dreams of being a Judo expert, and the Yorks dream of another time when they can be amused and entertained by such an illustrious group as the Class of '56'.
