Returns From Five-Thousand Mile Trip

Ed and Marjorie Miller returned this week from a trip of over five thousand miles, but not all of the travel was in their own car. They were gone five and a half weeks. They drove from Elmwood to Douglas, Wyo., where they visited her brother Cecil Stark and family. Orley Clements was also there. Mr. and Mrs. Stark drove them to Jackson Hole, they saw the Teton mountains, and visited Yellowstone National Park. After returning from this trip they visited the Starks for several days. Orley Clements went from there to Craig, Colo., in his own car, the way he came to the Starks.

They continued to Rudyard, Mont., and visited a cousin, Lynn Stark, a large wheat farmer. While there, they saw the wheat harvesting being done on a large scale, a most impressive sight. The wheat grown in this region is the hard wheat, and is considered to have more vitamins in it.

They visited the Hettrick family, at Harve, Mont., also. Lynn Stark drove them to Glacier Park, and stayed there five days, then returned to Rudyard, and visited awhile before continuing on their journey. They drove to Denver, Colo., to visit their son, John Miller and family. He drove them to Aspen, Colo. The aspen leaves were just turning color and were very beautiful. From there they returned to Denver for a longer visit.

They continued homeward and stopped at McCook, and visited a nephew, Maurice Weichel and family. Enroute they stopped at Arapahoe and visited the Rev. and Mrs. N. F. Horn. They report a most enjoyable trip, and one which was not tiring as they took time to visit as well as travel.
