Mynard Farm Unit Hears Farm Facts, Figures At Meet

Mrs. Richard O. Cole

The regular meeting of the Mynard Farm Bureau Unit was held on Friday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Wiles.

State Legislative Chairman for the Mynard Unit, Richard O. Cole, gave a brief report. He informed all the members of the annual Legislative School sponsored by the Nebraska Farm Bureau to be held February 19 to 22 at Lincoln. He also gave excerpts from a speech given by President Charles Marshall of the Nebraska Farm Bureau at the annual State Farm Bureau Convention in November. He touched briefly on the subjects of resolutions that were taken up at the State Convention.

Roy O. Cole presented the following facts: WHY FARMERS NEED ORGANIZATION. There is today one and one-half as much capital invested in agriculture as in the industries. The total investment of the average corn belt grain farm is $88,150.00. About $35,000.00 of this amount is invested in equipment, foundation herds, etc. At the present time, Nebraska farmers and ranchers with 20 per cent of the net income and 25 per cent of the population, pay 61 per cent of the taxes on real estate for state government. In dollars, this means, of the twenty-five million dollar state budget, about fifteen million dollars comes from agricultural industry of the state. The farmers and ranchers receive only one-fifth of the state's net income of approximately two billion dollars. As stated above, agriculture has one and one-half as much invested as does industry, and yet at a recent session of the legislature, farmers expended only $1862.00 through Farm Bureau to protect the interests of agriculture while the liquor interest spent $13,670.00; the railroads, $25,058.00; labor unions, $24,000.00 and so on among other interests.

The marriage was performed by the Reverend George H. Moore at the Christ Methodist Church at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Donald Morgan, sister of the bride, of Federalburg was matron of honor. Mr. Earl Turner of Seaford, De., was best man.

The bride was attired in a winter white two piece wool dress with matching accessories. Her white satin hat was trimmed in sequins. She wore a corsage of red and white carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, at Liberty Heights.

After the wedding trip, touring the southern states, the couple will make their home in Federalburg.

Nebraska has a poor reputation for egg production. If the Cass County Non-Stock Co-op were to take part in this activity, it would mean that the producer would have to produce the quality eggs. The Co-op would only be a place to take the eggs for trucking in large quantities to other parts of the United States. These eggs can be shipped anywhere in the United States for five cents a dozen.

Gertrude Barnard, Women's Chairman for the Mynard Unit, read the purpose of the Women's Organization in the Farm Bureau.

President William Gilmour announced that the next meeting would be held on February 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Cole.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

He also gave a great deal of information about a recent co-op egg marketing meeting held in Weeping Water. The average lapse of time between the laying of an egg and the selling of the egg is 44 days.
