

Louisville High School Ends First Semester Of Activity

Don Wildrick
Phone 2511

The end of the first semester on Jan. 11, and marked half of the school year.

During this semester there have been football winnings and losses, report cards three times, a freshman party instead of initiation, the annual Christmas party given by the Seniors, with the added attraction of Santa Claus, basketball and volleyball games. The starting of a drill team, the newly organized "Modern Music Masters Society" nationally known, the Christmas concert given by the music department, the seniors receiving their class pictures and ordering their announcements, and the juniors ordering their class rings.

The very well planned and practiced Junior class play which was a marvelous success, the organization of the Lionesse Club under the direction of Mr. Dodge, starting to work in the lab in chemistry, many enjoyable and educational field trips in the Modern Problems class, the annual Turkey dinner given by the home making department, and last but not least, the annual homecoming ceremony and party sponsored by the Pep Club.

The seniors now have 17 weeks of school left. Some of them will be glad to leave and others will be back visiting and wishing they were back in school.

The Modern Problems class began to have parties the first of the year. They were giving the teenagers something to do. These were successful but there seemed to be something missing. The teens couldn't call it their own.

Mrs. James Workman was interested in the teenagers and went to the extent of having a petition sent around to see how many people wanted the students to have a teneecenter.

The ideas and plans went out to the different clubs and organizations of this city and that started the ball rolling. Mrs. James Workman will be the director and it will be held in the basement of the Legion Hall. The opening date will be Feb. 2, Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Beck of South Bend are the parents of a baby daughter born Jan. 10, at the St. Mary's Hospital in Miss Allen Ragoss, was married to Kenneth Kenter at Carson City, Nev., on Jan. 1. Miss Ragoss is the daughter of the late Henry Ragoss of Louisville, and has been living in Sacramento, Calif., for the past few years. She was at one time employed at the Louisville Pharmacy.

The Louisville Methodist Church will be host to a leadership training school for church school workers and church workers, Jan. 22-23-24.

The school will begin with a dinner Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock. There will be two 50 minute instruction periods each evening. Eight churches have been invited to participate.

Instructors will include Mrs. Esther McWilliams of Fremont, instructor in nursery and kindergarten, Mrs. Christina McCaig, Lincoln, instructor in the youth department, Reverend Max O. McCamely from Fremont, in the adult division and Reverend Albert Laphrone of Omaha will instruct in a course in the work of the local church, to start basic training.

The Music Parents Band Club will hold its first official meeting Jan. 22, at 8 o'clock at the high school. Mrs. Anna Stiffler, chairman of the ways and means committee will present plans for the "Jabberwork" to be presented Jan. 29. This will be a benefit show for the bands. Mrs. O. G. Wiesneth is ticket chairman for the event.
