

Weeping Water P-TA Event Draws Enthusiastic Response

Many children, small, medium size and large, attended the very exciting P-T-A carnival which was held on Monday evening, Feb. 25, at the Cass County Agricultural Auditorium.

The atmosphere was very gay and colorful with many balloons and streamers used as decorations.

The main attraction, upstairs, was the "Cartoon Theatre." Three of the cartoons, Sleeping Squirrels, Three Little Pups and Tom and Jumbo, received many squeals and hollars from all who attended.

Among the other booths to be found upstairs were the white elephant, fishing, novelties, books, weighing and various others including the fortune teller.

Downstairs, the main attraction was the food center, where assorted kinds of cookies, pies, brownies, donuts, hot dogs, and coffee were sold. Also in separate booths were pop-corn, fudge, and pop and if you were lucky, you may have won a delicious cake in the cake walk. The bottle were also favorites of the youngsters. Almost everyone present during the evening either received or sent a telegram from the telegram booth. Western Union had nothing on the messenger boys from the P-T-A telegram booth.

Of course a carnival is nothing without the main attraction—the clown—who was selling balloons any opportunity he had. This character was portrayed by Walter Saxton. Also dressing like a salesman clown was Hy Kirchhoff who was guessing, or trying to guess, the ages of anyone who would trust his decisions.

Mrs. Neil Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Bud King were in charge of the evening program. They wish to thank all those taking charge of a booth and also the ones attending.

Mrs. Don Rutledge was hostess to the M. A. O. Extension Club members on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 28.

The afternoon opened with the song leader, Mrs. Clarence Schmadeke, leading the group in "America the Beautiful." The club collect was read the the Pledge of Allegiance given.

Mrs. Bill Finley gave her safety report using "Flammable Liquids In The Home," as her topic.

Twelve members answered roll call by giving a hint on "How to Prevent Fires In The Home."

Several important announcements were made, and the "Pennies For Friendship Fund" was taken up.

Mrs. Bill Finley and Mrs. Lewis Baker gave the lesson on "Mental Health." They held a quiz on "Consideration and Cooperation Toward Others."

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Schmadeke. A delicious lunch was served.

Sigvald Jensen gave an interesting resume of two subjects, "Home Gardens," and "Garden Clubs."

Mrs. Sigvald Jensen spoke on the topic, "Now's the Time," revealing the things to be done during the month of March.
