Iowa State Band Presents Concert Here Tuesday Eve

The weekend storm through this area of Nebraska played havoc with the turn out for the Iowa State Concert Band appearance at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening, but the near 250 persons that braved the elements, were treated to one of the finest musical presentations in Plattsmouth for many years.

Made up of top musicians from the State marching concert, varsity and basketball bands, the 75-member group included four Nebraskans, with two Plattsmouth graduates, Michael and Jerome Shellenbarger, sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Shellenbarger, members of the group under the direction of Frank Piersol.

Their presentation here included Symphony No. 5 by Dimitri Shostakovich, selections from Mr. Wonderful, The Girl I Left Behind Me, marches, and several other numbers by woodwind, trumpet, cornet, trombone and percussion ensembles, that displayed well the excellent musical talent of the Iowa State College at Ames.

Local homes were opened wide to accommodate members of the band for their overnight stay during a three-day tour of western Iowa and eastern Nebraska.
