In summertime, many people try to crowd a week of strenuous play into a weekend—or a year's activities into a short vacation. As a result, they "play themselves out"—suffer fatigue and the more serious consequences of exhaustion. Be wise—enjoy the fun and benefits of exercise—in moderation. Play within bounds of commonsense. If you have any doubts about what you can, or cannot do—ask your doctor. He is qualified to advise you. Remember—being "played out" is no fun at all.
