NEW HOMES COSTLY

Only one-sixth of the families living in American cities have enough income to justify the purchase of a new house, according to the National Housing Conference, a nonprofit organization established in 1931. A survey of eleven cities showed that the minimum price of new one-family houses ranged from $8,490 for a row house in Philadelphia to $13,900 for a detached dwelling in Milwaukee. The median was $11,450 in Kansas City. A family would have to have an annual income of $7,156 to meet the costs of an $11,450 house.

TALK ABOUT ECONOMY... FORDS COST LESS PER MILE!

Fords cost less to buy! No doubt about it! Model for model, Ford cars are the lowest priced* of the low-price three. And don't be fooled by those "low prices" now being quoted for some "stripped down" models in the medium-price field. Remember, a '57 Ford equipped the way most people want a car today—with automatic transmission, heater and radio—costs hundreds of dollars less than these medium-priced cars, similarly equipped.*

Fords cost less to run! In the only nationally recognized test of gasoline economy, the 1957 Mobilgas Economy Run, a Ford Six delivered more miles per gallon than any other car entered! This, remember, was no "private test" conducted for the benefit of a single manufacturer. This was grueling competition between 12 different makes of cars . . . supervised by the United States Auto Club. And when the test was over, Ford led all other cars in the thing you want most—actual miles per gallon!

Fords cost less to trade! Latest official auction sale figures on used cars show clearly that the new kind of Ford commands a higher price than either of its two low-priced competitors. The men who bid at these auctions are professional buyers—men whose very livelihood depends upon their expert knowledge of cars. They pay more for used Fords because they know that Fords hold up in value. Like thousands of Ford owners from coast to coast, they have discovered that Ford is worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it, too!
