

The European Corn Borer

The European corn borer, while not the calamity to the corn crop predicted some 25 years ago when it was entering Ohio, still accounts for a lot of damage to America's corn crop.

The population of this pest varies from year to year and from place to place, depending apparently to quite an extent on weather conditions. In most of the Corn Belt there are two broods per year.

The first brood does most damage to leaves and stalks, while the second brood's greatest damage is by eating in the ear shank, causing ears to drop before picking. The eggs for the first brood are normally laid on the biggest corn — when it is around knee high.

Eggs for the second brood are deposited after tasseling and the preference is for the latest, greenest corn at that time. Young borers may be found feeding around the base of the ear and in the ear shank.

Crop observers reported the heaviest incidence of the corn borer in Iowa this year. In some Iowa fields, borer counts showed 4 to 10 per stalk with 50 per cent to 100 per cent of the ear shanks affected. This meant a great deal of ear dropping. The borer often eats part way through the shank, weakening it, so that the first sharp wind will take it off.

Corn borer control is partially available by spraying or dusting plants with D.D.T. This is used mostly for the first brood. After borers enter the stalk or ear shank, no control is possible.

The best remedy for ear dropping is early harvest.

Moonshine Going Up

Revenue Agents in Washington said that the price of moonshine liquor is going up. The liquid lightning that the boys make in the woods in so many states is not a victim of inflation so much as it is a victim of the practices of the revenuers.

The revenuers have cracked down on the wholesalers and retailers of the country who sell sugar. They have warned them not to sell big quantities of sugar to unknown buyers, and to report anyone who tries to buy more than average amounts.

As a result, say Government agents, moonshiners are pinched for sugar and have been trying to find substitutes, hijacking trucks, and offering three times the price for 100-pound bags of sugar.

The result of all this is that moonshine, which used to sell for about $20 per twelve half-gallon fruit jars, is now up to $30 or $40. In short, it's getting where a man can't earn an honest living.

Books about World War II

It is interesting to note that some of the most important and significant books covering and explaining World War II are now beginning to reach the market.

For example, in a recent issue of a major newspaper, two important books caught the eye. One was entitled, "The Battle of Casino," and tells the story of that famous battle on an Italian hillside where the Germans held up the Allied army for so many weeks and months, and which cost so many lives.

The other book which caught the eye was one entitled, "Victory in Papua." This is the story of one of the grimmest campaigns in the history of the war. American troops in this battle, which was the battle of Southeast New Guinea, endured more than most.

They were poorly equipped, poorly backed up and inadequately prepared in practically every way for the ordeal which overtook them. This was a six-months campaign, which came to a climax near the Buna-Gona beachhead.

This book is the seventh of the official Army series dealing with the war in the Pacific, and is probably too detailed to be of interest to the average reader.

The Battle of Casino, on the other hand, might be of more interest to the average reader. This was a most spectacular battle, and, in the third Allied attack, Casino — it will be remembered — was annihilated by bombing. This book, it is interesting to see, contains some inaccuracies, as do most books.

Nevertheless it seems that many of the most interesting books about World War II are just beginning to come out, — as was the case after World War I. It takes ten to fifteen years — for some reason.

Down Memory Lane

20 YEARS AGO Postmaster General James A. Farley paid a visit to the Plattsmouth post office on an official visit of inspection. He was greeted by a great many of the local people to see the democratic national chairman rather than the postmaster general — Traffic in the business section of the city was slowed down when a large number of students of the high school staged a rally for the game between Plattsmouth and Valley. Valley won the game 13 to 0 — Dr. W. V. Ryan was in Omaha where he was called to set the Jaw of Jack Robbins, Louisvillian, injured here in an auto accident — Phillip Lepert, prominent resident of south of this city suffered injury when kicked by a horse — A fine ten pound son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Sedlak at the home of Mrs. Sedlak's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Wilson, bringing a great deal of happiness to the family — Searl S. Davis was at Boonville, Mo., to visit his son, Steven, a student at the Kemper military academy — Sheriff Homer Sylvester and Deputy Sheriff Cass Sylvester were at Lincoln to look into the recovery of silver wear stolen from the farm home of John and Andrew Meyer near Greenwood. The sheriff and deputy were able to locate the silver and return it to the owners — A group of young people enjoyed a scavenger hunt and after the hunt had refreshments at the home of Joanne Moore. Those taking part were Joanne Moore, Vince Kelly, Charles Walden, Glen Kohrell, Rachael Robertson, Pat Clout, Edward Ossenkop, Marjorie Fitch, Anna Marie Rea, Marjorie Wolfarth and Ralph Timm.

20 YEARS AGO Fred Hull, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hull, residing in the Bekin building, had a very close call from death, when coasting down high school hill, he crashed into a passing automobile at the Main and 6th street intersection. He had borrowed the bicycle of Melvin Barr, a schoolmate, to ride home. They boy had gained a rate of speed when it struck a car driven by R. W. White of Nebraska City. Fred was hurled to the pavement by the force of the impact. He was taken to the office of Dr. T. P. Livingston by Mr. White, Chief of Police Johnson and Dr. O. Sandin. It was found that Fred had suffered a fracture of the right leg and some injury to the hip as well as two teeth knocked out. He was taken to the Immanuel hospital at Omaha — George Conis was expected home from his journey to Europe, visiting Greece and also attending the tenth annual convention of the American Legion in Paris.

Obituary Of Francis Emmett Carter Of Avoca

Francis Emmett Carter, son of Charity and John B. Carter, was born on Febr. 19, 1874 in Lineville, Ia., and passed away at Nebraska City, Sept. 19, 1957 at the age of 83 years and 7 months.

At the age of six months his family moved to Cass county, Nebraska, settling on a farm which is the present site of Avoca.

He was the first charter member of the Christian church which was established in Avoca in 1897. He helped to build the first Christian church building, which is now the present Congregational church. He was extremely active in the church until its membership was depleted and he along with others, transferred his membership to the Christian church in Weeping Water, where he was a faithful and active member until his death.

On January 31, 1900, he was united in marriage to Sarah Betts, who passed away in 1921.

On June 3, 1923, he married Mrs. Alice Wilson. This union embraced her five minor children to whom he became a devoted father. Following her death in 1933, their welfare and happiness was always uppermost in his life.

His love of farming and great pride in the pioneering of this community created in him the strong desire to spend his entire life in Avoca. It led him to share a home in the later years with his one remaining sister, Anetta B. Carter, who mourns his loss. Four sisters and two brothers preceded him in death three in infancy.

The five children survive. They are: Priscilla Bose and Ruby Nelson, Los Angeles, Calif., Almy Krider, Detroit, Mich., Alma Hay, Lincoln, and Clarence Wilson, Omaha.

Eight grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren also survive, as well as several nieces and nephews.

LOW INCOME HOUSING Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole recently said the nation is "seriously lagging" behind present congressional authorizations for both public and private low-income housing. He called for a "realistic review" of the program.
