Rotary Hears About Interstate

The Rotary Club Tuesday noon heard a talk about the Interstate Highway and Expressway systems in the Omaha area.

Speaker was Mike Rusillo, manager of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce public highway improvement committee.

He gave a progress report on planning of the three interstate systems which will go through Omaha and of the expressways which the city will build in 50-50 financial cooperation with the federal government.

The interstate highways are to be built on a 90-10 federal-state cost share basis.

Rusillo was introduced by program chairman B. H. G. Eiting. Eiting also told about a mercy operation to aid Indians caught by the worst snowstorm in history in mountains in Mexico last month.

Americans at the Mexico City University, including Eiting's son, Bernard, fostered and promoted the campaign to provide and deliver food, clothing and firewood to starving, freezing snowstorm victims. Eiting read portions of letters from his son and a story from a Mexican newspaper.

High school Rotarians of the month at the meeting were junior Edward Bierl and senior William Hunting.
