Albert A. Young Undergoes Severe Leg Operation

Albert A. Young, native of Cass County and resident of Murray and Plattsmouth, up until a few years ago, has been confined to the Memorial Hospital in Colorado Springs, Colo., since January 10th.

Albert fell on January 10th rebreaking his hip. His hip was first broken three years ago. In this last fall Albert was injured internally, suffering bleeding through the mouth for a three week period due to an injured diaphragm. Because of this condition he could not be given general anesthesia for surgery.

He was operated on January 16th with a local being given him for the operation, seeing the entire process of the operation of removing the head of the thigh bone and replace it with metal. He stood the operation in fine shape but later developed shock and was not rational for three weeks. Within a few days of the shock he developed a rare infection in his throat and neck. This was baffling until a new and rare remedy was tried, Spotin, released on the market in January. Albert's case was the first treated with this drug in the Memorial hospital and he is now receiving it regularly and with apparent great success. It is of particular interest in Colorado Springs as it is claimed it was discovered and derived from soil in the Garden of the Gods near that city.

He now has free and easy use of his leg. Mr. Young is very appreciative of the cards and letters from his friends and the Journal.

He has been making his home with a sister, Mrs. Clara Lee White at Colorado Springs.

Mary Wiles was born March 22, 1862, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wiles who were among the earliest settlers in the pioneer Cass County settlement, Rock Bluff. Her life story is a part of the history of Cass County, she spending her lifetime in this community.

After her marriage to George Wiles the family moved to the central part of the county where they resided on a farm for their lifetime, assisting in the building up of that part of Cass. The husband preceded her in death several years ago.

They reared a grandson, George Wiles, who has made his home with them and assisted in the care of the grandmother through the years.

In late years the family resided in Weeping Water, where Mrs. Wiles has resided on a small place and carried on her usual activities as on the farm. She had a garden made the past summer and looked after its care as diligently as she had on the farm. She was able to do her canning and other household duties up to the time she suffered a stroke but has been under care since that time.

The family and community will greatly miss the presence and example of Grandma Wiles.

Survey Of Sarpy County For School Purposes Is Sought

The school reorganization committee of Sarpy county is asking a survey of the county to determine the best plan for future school mergers. The county committee is asking that the University of Nebraska and the State Department of Education send a survey team into the county.

The present reorganization group hopes to meet again on Feb. 27 if the state can furnish a survey team by that date.

District 5 is asking a study of districts 1, 5, 42, 43, 44 and 45, aimed at providing a larger high school district than the present Bellevue district. It is noted that districts 2, 3 and 40 might be included.

Several of the east end board members declared that a high school in their area was a pressing need.

Districts 2 (LaPlatte), 3, 8, 9 and 17 have been mentioned as potential additions to the Plattsmouth and Louisville districts.

Chester Collins of District 2 said his district is not interested in crossing the river. Mrs. Jerry Knapp reported that District 17 would like to stay in Sarpy County but that part of District 9 might be interested in being allied with Louisville.
