How can you tell when your Thanksgiving turkey is done? To tell whether turkey is done, press the fleshy part of the drumstick with your fingers, protecting them with cloth or paper. It is done if the meat feels soft. Or move the drumstick up and down. If the leg joint gives readily or breaks, your turkey is done.

If you use a meat thermometer, your turkey will be done when a thermometer placed in the center of the inside thigh muscle registers 190 degrees Fahrenheit, or when one placed in the center of the dressing registers 180 degrees F. Be sure to follow manufacturer's directions for using a thermometer.

After the turkey is done, allow it to stand in the roasting pan 15 to 30 minutes so that juices may be absorbed. Remove all trussing equipment, such as skewers and cord.

Place the bird on a warm large platter. Use a simple garnish. Don't over do it.

Carve at the table so everyone can enjoy the full glamour using a very sharp, thin-bladed knife and a fork with a guard.

$950,000 in 4 Damage Suits

Four suits asking a total of $950,000 in damages were filed Friday in District Court here.

They were filed on behalf of Arthur Taylor and Lawrence Smith of Murray and named as defendant, R. B. "Dick" Wilson Inc., a Chester, Neb., trucking corporation.

A Wilson truck was involved in an accident at Murray corner Nov. 8 in which Mrs. Taylor, 27, and Mrs. Smith, her mother, 51, were killed and in which the Taylors' 16-month old daughter Teresa was seriously injured. Also killed in the accident was Ralph Gentry, Falls City, driver of the gasoline transport. The transport and a car driven by Mrs. Taylor accompanied by Mrs. Smith and the two Taylor children collided on U. S. 75 at the intersection of the Murray Road (Highway 1).

The women were thrown from the car and burned. The children were taken from the car by two hitchhikers who were at the intersection at the time of the accident.

Will Minford, working at a corn crib into which the truck plowed after the collision, pulled the truck driver, believed dead at the time, from the cab of the truck before flames from burning gasoline engulfed a wide area.

Specifically, the four damage suits are:

Lawrence Smith, special administrator of the estate of Elsie May Smith, deceased, vs. R. B. "Dick" Wilson, Inc. of Nebraska, a corporation, $300,000.

Arthur Taylor, father and next friend of Theresa Diana Taylor, a minor, vs. same, $200,000.

Arthur Taylor, special administrator of the estate of Joan Taylor, deceased, vs. same, $150,000.

And Arthur Taylor vs. same, $300,000.

Francis M. Casey, Plattsmouth attorney, is legal representative in all four suits.

Each suit alleges the truck was operated at a high rate of speed (70 mph), was on the wrong side of the road, and that the driver failed to apply the brakes, swerved the truck to the left or east side of the road and failed to swerve to the right in order to avoid an accident.

At the time of the accident, the truck was going south on U. S. 75. The car had just turned onto highway from the Murray Road.

The suit seeking damages for injuries to Theresa Taylor says her injuries included a brain injury, skull fracture, lacerated spleen, kidney injury and cuts and bruises.

Terry Taylor 'Some Improved' Terry, 16 months old daughter of Arthur Taylor and the late Mrs. Taylor is somewhat improved at Children's Memorial Hospital in Omaha.

It was necessary to remove the child's spleen, according to the child's grandmother, Mrs. Taylor, she is somewhat improved.

Terry's mother, Mrs. Joan Lea Taylor and grandmother, Mrs. Elsie May Smith were killed at the Murray corner Nov. 8. Terry and her 4-year-old sister, were passengers in the car from which the women were thrown.

Louisville Ships '165 Trains of 125 Cars Each'

LOUISVILLE (Special) — A few figures given out this week show that a lot of shipping has been done from Louisville this year.

Agent Earl Hurlbut at the Burlington, says that the Burlington handled 14,465 cars of cement, rock, gravel, etc., from January 1 to October 31 with most of it being done between April and October.

Using a train of 125 cars as average the two men at the Burlington station handled the paper work for the shipping of 115 trainloads with another train of 100 cars added.

It is estimated that the men at the Missouri Pacific handled about 3,700 cars, mostly cement with a few cars of grain and the Rock Island handled about 2,500 cars.

Added together they give Louisville a shipping total from the three railroads of about 20,665 carloads of materials and products, or more than 163 train loads of 125 cars.

Developments Don't Panic City Groups

The Plattsmouth City Council and Board of Public Works will continue to further plans for the city's sewer disposal plant and haven't been panicked by news developments the past week.

Mayor Grant Roberts made this statement Saturday and added that further procedure toward the disposal plant will be discussed by the Council at its next meeting as well the intention before last week's developments.

Those developments were: Receipt by the mayor of a letter from State Health Director E. A. Rogers notifying the city of a "ban" on new sewer extensions because Plattsmouth like five other communities was "showing no activity of sufficient importance to indicate steps are being taken to abate pollution."

And — news stories in the Omaha papers telling of a U. S. Public Health Service official's reminder to the six towns of their responsibility to discontinue dumping raw sewage into the Missouri River and the story of the federal ban on further sewer extensions in the six towns.

Besides Plattsmouth, they are Bellevue, Nebraska City, Dakota City, Niobrara and South Sioux City.

The reason for the developments is believed to be the fact that Omaha at the general election voted bonds to finance its sewer disposal system and work is contemplated next year.

Heretofore, some downstream towns have been reluctant to proceed with treatment facilities until Omaha, the much larger polluter, did something.

In Plattsmouth, however, the city has had preliminary planning for its plant done for some time and has been accumulating a sinking fund to finance a disposal plant by a mill levy.

Both Roberts and Robert Cappel, manager of the Board of Public Works, said planning for treatment facilities here will continue in an orderly fashion.

To interpret the federal "ban" on sewer extensions, Roberts talked last week with T. A. Filipi, state sanitation director, in Lincoln.

Roberts said the interpretation he got is that service connections can be made to existing sewer but that no new extensions can be installed.

He said the Thayer Street sanitary sewer in an area where housing is being built has already been approved and is not affected by the federal order.

Both he and Cappel said it is unlikely there will be any request for further extensions between now and spring in any case.
