

Celebration For Mr. and Mrs. Senf

Mr. and Mrs. William Senf will hold open house at the First Methodist Church in Plattsmouth in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, February 1, from two to five p.m.

The couple was married at the German Evangelical Church in Elmwood. Their attendants were Fred Ostertag and Ida Weishelt, now Mrs. Will Murtin, sister of the bride. Rev. Goetz performed the wedding service.

The couple farmed in the vicinities of Elmwood and Weeping Water and later at Nehawka. He also did blacksmith work. Twenty-two years ago they moved to Plattsmouth where he was engaged with the US Engineers and later the BREX, retiring in 1953.

They are the parents of six children, a son Wallard died at the age of 20 years. Other children are Mrs. Esther Christensen, Carl Senf, Mrs. Martha McQuinn, Mrs. Edith Dasher and Mrs. Clara Stoll all of Plattsmouth. They have 14 grandchildren.

Many friends and relatives are expected to call on the honored couple during the 50th wedding date celebration.

Gansemer-Hespen Nuptials At Nebraska City

Miss Phyllis Marie Gansemer of Murray and Mr. Donald Dean Hespen of Syracuse were married Saturday afternoon at Nebraska City by Judge George Stanley at the Otee County courthouse. Attending them were Hilda Harms and Sterling W. Harms of Nebraska City.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clell Gansemer, prominent residents of the Nehawka community where she grew up and attended school. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sedlak and Mrs. Anna Gansemer of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Harms are planning on making their home here in Plattsmouth if possible. The groom is employed in Omaha.

Rotarians 'See' Brussels Fair

The Rotary Club here took a trip Tuesday to the Brussels, Belgium, World's Fair.

They saw what several club members called "the best color slides" they'd ever seen and heard an on-the-spot running commentary on the fair through a tape recording.

The slides were taken and the commentary recorded by Navy Lt. Cmdr. Alan White and sent home to his father Harry White here. The latter was at the Rotary meeting to present the program.

Cmdr. White was in Europe last year on a destroyer which took midshipmen on their annual cruise and thus saw much of Europe and visited the fair. He said he liked the U.S. fair exhibit, despite many unfavorable comments by Americans who also had seen it.

Cmdr. White said, by tape recording, he thought the exhibit did exactly what it was intended to do, show a cross section of what America and Americans are.

Many persons commented that the Russian exhibit was much more impressive because it displayed the most striking of Soviet products.

Cmdr. White commented that the U. S. didn't need to show its industrial products at the fair, that they are in evidence all over Europe as regular consumer goods.

Harry White was assisted in showing the slides by Rotarian Ralph Wehrlein, his nephew. George Jaeger, program chairman for the day, introduced White.

High School Rotarians the past month were Don Williams who said he would like to go to college in engineering and John Kaffenberger who said he, too, is interested in engineering as a career.
