Here's how to test house plants to see when they need watering. Hit the pot with your knuckles. If it makes a dull sound, the plant has enough water. If it pings, the plant is dry. And keep your house plants free of insects.

The appeals of the great religious faiths for funds with which to carry on their world-wide programs to relieve suffering among the overseas victims of aggression, poverty and disaster are traditional at this season.

Through these efforts, the greatest of America's voluntary ministries to need abroad, hundreds of millions of pounds of food, clothing and medicines — including U. S. surplus commodities — will be distributed free to the homeless, the hungry and the destitute during the coming year.

Programs of resettlement and constructive development for refugees will be maintained, orphanages, schools and hospitals will be supported and tuberculosis and other health projects carried on.

On Sunday, March 8, to sustain these programs which reach millions in more than 50 areas of distress, thousands of our Protestant churches will observe "One Great Hour of Sharing," highlight of the United Appeal for overseas relief and reconstruction.

On the same day, special offerings for similar purposes will be made to "The Bishops' Relief Fund" of Catholic Relief Services — National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Meantime, our national Jewish community will be emphasizing the United Jewish Appeal Special Fund for programs to aid refugees and other in need abroad.

This is religious America's greatest time of sharing. Keeping faith with those in need either at home or abroad — sharing our abundance with those less fortunate than ourselves — is a basic human Americanism.

Sharing with them through religious faith, the basic common denominator of all mankind — giving generously and gladly through our houses of worship — is a most effective witness of the sincerity of America's unselfishness in her efforts to spread peace and good will among all men.
