

Winscot, Draper, Stewart 'Most Valuable' Athletes

Tom Winscot, J. C. Draper and Jim Stewart were announced as "most valuable" players in Plattsmouth High School sports the past school year at the annual Chamber of Commerce Athletic Banquet Thursday night at the auditorium.

Winscot was chosen outstanding in football. He played quarter-back and halfback, did most of the passing and punting.

Draper was named most valuable in basketball. The 6-4 center led his team in scoring and had high single game point production the past season.

Winscot and Draper are seniors, were named to all-conference teams for their performance the past year.

Stewart was announced as most valuable in track, an honor based on actual points scored in competitive meets.

The speedy sophomore won the 100 and 220-yard dashes in several meets, qualified for the state meet and ran fourth in his heat in each of those two races.

Stewart won the Twin Rivers Conference 220-yard dash championship last week. He also anchored Plattsmouth's 880-relay team.

Named honorary captains in the three sports for the past year were: track - John Konfrst and Winscot; football - Ken Pritchard and Konfrst; basketball - Winscot.

Most valuable reserve basketball player was Stewart.

Jim Shown won the basketball free-throw percentage title. Nearly 200 persons attended the banquet to see 57 awards presented, including letters and chevrons.

Ernie Schultz, toastmaster for the evening, introduced the speakers and complimented the persons responsible for promoting and arranging the banquet.

The Pep Club served. Walter Gleason, president of the Chamber of Commerce, welcomed athletes and coaches on behalf of the C. C. T. I. Friest, superintendent, responded for the school, thanking those who had supported the athletic program.

Featured speaker of the evening was Paul Schneider, head trainer of the University of Nebraska football team.

He emphasized the importance of team work and "enjoying what you do in work or play."

While many may lack the natural abilities of the stars of athletic teams or business organizations, he said, they can succeed by their hard work. They play an important part by doing their best.

However, he said, it is equally important that you have fun while doing your tasks.

Coming from the University of Nebraska, it would be expected that he urge attendance at that school. His plea, however, was for the seniors to continue their education in some college, even if it meant sacrifice of immediate pleasures.

Breakin Reported At High School

Three rooms in the Plattsmouth High School were entered during the daytime Sunday by breaking out door windows.

The guilty parties apparently found the east door of the school unlocked, and fingerprints found on the glass indicate the intruders to be very young, according to Sheriff Tom Solomon who investigated.

The youth ransacked office desks, probably in search of money, but upon finding some chocolate candy in one of the desks the youth discarded mints they brought to the school with them and ate the chocolate candy, the sheriff deduced.

Taken were a number of small tools and an electric drill, Model 70-A.
