Independence Day

Have a Good Time July 4th Weekend... But Be Careful!

Who Put Fireworks in The Fourth of July?

Who put the fireworks in the Fourth of July?

Much of the credit goes to John Adams, according to the World Book Encyclopedia. The Founding Father declared that Independence Day "ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations, from one end of the continent to the other, from this time forward for evermore."

So from that time forward, the birthday of the U.S. has been marked by brilliant explosions of color and noise... and the deaths and accidents that invariably accompany them.

Americans, however, got the idea for fireworks from Europeans, who got the idea from the Arabs, who merely copied the Chinese.

In 1322 A.D., when a Chinese city was besieged by Mongols, the defenders cooked up a batch of saltpeter, sulfur and charcoal and frightened their attackers with "arrows of flying fire."

Arabs were quick to copy these weapons, which probably were rockets. The Crusaders brought them back to Europe, where the Italians discovered that they made fancy exhibitions as well as formidable weapons.

By the time fireworks spread to England and France, figures and structures of wood and plaster had been added.

In 1520, when Henry VIII met Francis I on the Field of the Cloth of Gold in northern France, the historic moment was celebrated by the appearance of a huge dragon that thundered across the sky breathing fire.

By the 1600's, fireworks had developed into such an art that two schools of thought had arisen to argue over methods of display.

The Southern School, centered in Italy, concentrated on building elaborate structures such as castles and temples, from which the fireworks were exploded. The technique of setting off the fireworks was shrouded in mystery.

The Northern School, influenced by the Protestant movement in Germany, thought the Italian procedure too austere. The Northerners exhibited their fireworks before the show, for all to admire and then made them the important part of the display.

While the two schools fumed over their firecrackers, fireworks crossed the Atlantic and became an American institution.

Don't Be Independent On Roads!

"The Fourth of July is Independence Day, but the driver who gets too independent on the road may find himself in an accident or in the custody of the Patrol."

This warning was given to motorists today by Col. C. J. Saunders who said, "The Safety Patrol will be making an all-out effort to see that traffic accidents will not mar this year's Independence Day celebration."

National accident records show that traffic deaths and injuries usually reach a peak for the summer on July 4. However, Nebraska recorded no traffic deaths on the Fourth of July last year. Six deaths is the high for a July 4th weekend in Nebraska, which occurred in 1954.

"Specifically," Col. Saunders said, "fatigue from trying to cover too many miles during the Fourth weekend, excessive speed and drinking, and improper passing are contributory factors in holiday accidents. The Patrol will center their attention on these violations with the aid of aircraft and radar."

75 At Reunion Of Class of 1939

Welcome Flags on Main Street Saturday waved for the class of 1939, of the Plattsmouth High School, who met in the Lions Club Rooms for their first reunion since graduation 20 years ago.

Seventy-five husbands, wives and grads enjoyed a social time starting at 5:30 p.m., spent in renewing acquaintances and sipping old times.

At seven o'clock, fried chicken dinner, served by a local cafe was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Dorothea Fulton Roberts, offered the before-dinner blessing and asked for silent prayer honoring Harriett Case and Roy Hughes, deceased class members.

LeRoy Wilson introduced Mayor Grant Roberts who welcomed the class to the city and presented a symbolic key to class president Tom Solomon.

After introducing the class treasurer John Jacobs and class secretary Mrs. Frances Hadraba Cotner, Mr. Wilson presented a loved teacher of the group, past Supt. of Plattsmouth Public Schools, Lowell S. Devoe of Lincoln, who served as toastmaster of the evening.

Mr. Devoe's marvelous memory of faces, tales of the past, stories and anecdotes were a constant source of enjoyment throughout the evening.

Mrs. Maxine Nielsen Bowman read the class roll of 20 years ago and Mrs. Alice Jayne Grosshans McShane read the class prophesy.

Each member present introduced his spouse and gave a thumbnail sketch of his life.

By motion, the class decided to dissolve the Harriett Case Award as of this year. Plans were made to celebrate a silver reunion in five years with the same committee in charge. Dues of $1 per year are to be paid to meet expenses.

Mrs. Roberts was presented to the group and she expressed the sentiment of the class toward Mr. Devoe and gave a personal message received from Mrs. Clara Weyrich who was prevented at the last minute from attending due to the illness of her brother.

The evening's entertainment was concluded with a collection of old time school days snapshots and recent snapshots of the children of the grads being projected on a wall screen by Dale Bowman.

The grads enjoyed being together, as most of the group remained past midnight visiting and enjoying the fellowship and looking over keepsakes from school days displayed on the "memories table."
