Deeper in Debt

The American public went deeper in debt in 1958 than it has ever gone before, according to an announcement by the Department of Commerce in Washington. However, the situation was not viewed as an alarming one by government econo-

It was said that the ever-increasing debt is a continuing trend, partly caused by an increasing population and rising incomes of the average American.

The rise in the National Debt in the last year, or in 1958, was some $18,700,-000,000. Thus the private debts of Americans reached the record total of $239,000,-

The Commerce Department said that the different economic trends in 1958 direcly affected the character and volume of financing. In the first part of 1958, when the recession was still in progress, and the business outlook seemed rather bleak, consumer borrowing fell off, but when the upturn became apparent, late in the year, consumer borrowing increased.

This reflects the mental attitude of many borrowers, and also would reflect the increasing job security, or job income. We suspect, very naturally, that the debt increase will be greater this year than it was in 1958.
