60 Days for Ducks, 75 for Geese Beginning Oct. 10

LINCOLN — Waterfowlers were given the go-ahead for a 60-day duck season and a 75-day goose season by the Nebraska Game Commissioners Monday. Duck hunters will take to the lakes and marshes October 10 through December 8. Geese are legal prey from October 10 to December 23.

Due to northern drought conditions, less Dakota and Canadian ducks will be winging over the Central Flyway this year. This is reflected in the reduced bag and possession limits for the 1959 season, three and six respectively.

The goose bag and possession limits remain the same as last year, five for each. Big incentive for goose hunters this year is the longer season, giving Nebraska nimrods a better chance to gun the later Canadian geese on the western Nebraska routes.

Red-headed ducks, rubby ducks, and canvasbacks are in low numbers this year. Consequently, the total bag and possession limits of duck hunters may include only one canvasback, or one redhead, or one rubby duck. So long as a person has one of these species in possession he may not include one in a subsequent bag. The total possession also may not include more than one wood duck and one hooded merganser.

Goose hunters may fill their bags with five snows or five blue geese. However, possession options are one white-fronted goose, two Canada geese, or one white-front and one Canada goose.

Early shooting will be best, with locally-produced mallards and blue-winged teal plentiful enough to afford some fine targets before they migrate south. Nebraska is situated on the southern edge of the duck-producing factory of the mid-continent. The state's duck breeding conditions were not as critical as in areas further north.

Shooting hours for all waterfowl species are from sunrise to sunset of open days, except on the first day of the season, when hunting shall commence at noon. In previous years of duck hunting daily shooting began one-half hour before sunrise. The entire state is open, except for federal and state sanctuaries and refuges. Prohibited are live decoys, or bait, and also the use of livestock as camouflage.

Cash Register Dug from Platte

A cash register stolen in a breakin at Jay's Texaco Service Station in south Platte Sunday, Feb. 6 1958, was recovered Sunday from the bed of the Platte River. A dragnet working on the new bridge piers dug up the register and it was turned over to Sheriff Tom Solomon.

Keys found in the battered and rusted register were identified as being taken from the service station operated by Jay Winters.

This was the second register dug up in the river bed along with a number of billfolds.

2-a-Day Sessions To Continue for 'Anyone Interested'

Plattsmouth High today began football practice with 22 players at the morning session and more expected at this afternoon's workout.

Coach Bill Hawkins and assistants John Adkins, Cecil McKnight and Stan Cole have just three weeks to get the squad ready for the season opener on Sept. 11 at Tecumseh.

The home opener is the following Friday, Sept. 18, against Crete.

Hawkins today tendered this general invitation: "Anyone interested in coming out for football is invited to do so. Practices will be at 8 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. this week."

Workouts both morning and afternoon will be preceded by chalk-talk classes, the classes to start at 8 and 2:30.

Field drills are being held on the new athletic field behind Central school since the Washington Ave. field was graded and seeded this spring and probably won't be used until games begin.

This morning, the limited early turnout of players ran through plays in shorts, had some wind sprints and got equipment in preparation for start of serious work this afternoon and Tuesday.

Others will draw equipment as they join the squad.

It was plenty warm today and sweat flowed freely, for both players and coaches.

As practice progressed this morning, trucks were hauling earth to the east end of the new field to fill a washout in the embankment caused by recent big rains.

Local Reserves In Step with Reorganization

FORT CARSON, Colo. — Plattsmouth's hometown unit of the Army Reserve wound up its annual two weeks' summer training here Saturday with a new view of its role in national defense.

Three officers and 44 enlisted men of the local Heavy Mortar Company of Nebraska's 355th Infantry Regiment have swung into step with the sweeping reorganization of the 89th Infantry Division.

This year at summer camp the Plattsmouth reservists shifted emphasis from learning to soldiering to learning to teach other men to soldier.

The change is part of the redesignation of the parent 89th Division as a training unit.

Under command of Capt. Cecil M. Karr, the mortar men spent two weeks in training designed to enhance their effectiveness as military instructors.

This fall the company will be re-named Company H, Second Battalion, 355th Regiment (BCT). The BCT stands for Basic Combat Training.

At future summer training sessions and in event of mobilization, men of the present Heavy Mortar Company would be given the job of instilling combat skills in trainees under their jurisdiction.

For a start, Heavy Mortar members taught each other in classes conducted at Fort Carson facilities.

Linder Firestone To Move To New Location on 6th

It is understood that he is also negotiating for the purchase of the lease of the Conoco Service Station on the corner adjoining the building.

Mr. Linder is advertising a Pre-Moving Sale in this issue of The Journal.

C. E. Welshimer, owner of the building presently occupied by the Firestone Store has made no announcement as to the future occupancy of the building.

Has An Old Paper
Paul H. Kinnamon, member of an old time Plattsmouth family, living at Spokane, Wash., writes in to renew his subscription. He states he has in his possession a Journal of 1897.

Winscot Played 'Good Game'

Plattsmouth Coach Bill Hawkins, one of the South coaching staff members for the Shrine All-Star high school football game Sunday in Omaha, was pleased with the performance of Tom Winscot of Plattsmouth.

Last year, Winscot played quarterback and halfback at times, did much of the passing and the punting and was a good runner for Plattsmouth.

Sunday night, he played most of the game on defense for the South in its 7-6 win over the North. He made one vital save when he was the last defensive player between a North runner and the goal line. His tackle got the ball for the south and the threat ended.

At the time, the North led 6-0 and a score at that point would have been costly if not fatal for the South.

Today, Winscot's picture appeared in the Lincoln paper as he made a stop of a North ball carrier.

LETTER BOX

Citizens:

A few months ago the County Board authorized a second deputy for the sheriff's office. To date this vacancy has not been filled. When filled, it will constitute the first increase in the sheriff's office of a full time bonded officer in over one-hundred years.

The sheriff's office's 1959 estimated budget contains approximately $5,500 for extra deputy. This is for his salary, estimated mileage, two-way radio and other allied equipment.

The reason for seeking the assistance of an additional deputy were: 1. To help relieve the ever increasing demand for services being placed on the sheriff's office. 2. To give more night coverage to the western part of the county where improved roads have brought about more night traffic and an increase in night offenses. 3. To give some relief to the present officers' 12 to 18 hour days.

During winter months the crime rate is usually higher but this year the summer months crime figures are up to those of winter months.

Likewise during the normal summer months the jail is either empty or had a low count but for the past three months the average jail count has been up to ten daily.

These two items, the extra deputy and the increase in jail count are the two main reasons why the estimated sheriff's office and jail budgets were raised for the 1959-1960 fiscal year as published.

Breakin at Murdock Drug Store Sunday

A 48-year-old Murdock man's crime spree ended fast and landed him in the county jail Sunday night.

It all began when W. J. B. McDonald, the owner and operator of the McDonald Drug store discovered at 9:30 Sunday night that the drug store had been broken into. He quickly summoned Sheriff Tom Solomon and reported his loss as approximately $135 in cash and some cigarettes.

The first suspect questioned by the sheriff admitted the break-in and turned over the items that were taken from the store. The man said he was in need of cigarettes, so broke out the rear door glass and entered.

Charges were pending today against the man.
