Gleason 'Covers' K's Ames Visit

When Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev visited Iowa State University at Ames, one of those covering the visit journalistically was Burton Gleason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gleason of Plattsmouth.

The younger Gleason is editor of the new Ames Laboratory News, a bi-weekly newsheet for employes of the Ames Laboratory of the Institute for Atomic Research.

The newsheet carried a photo of part of the Russian party on its visit to the Laboratory.

Countyans in Biggest Peru Freshman Class

New Peruvians from Cass County arranged to get together for a group picture during their first week of "beanie-wearin'" at Peru State Teachers College.

The 184 freshmen at Peru State constitute the largest class for the 92nd academic year at Nebraska's first college.

The total enrollment of 561 is up eight percent over the 1958 fall semester's 519. The freshmen wore the beanies until the first home football game on Oct. 1, when the Peru Bobcats met the Concordia of Seward Bulldogs in the Oak Bowl.

County Beef Winners at Ak-Sar-Ben

Hunter Ingwerson of Plattsmouth showed the champion pen of five beef heifers at the Ak-Sar-Ben Live Stock Show. He showed Angus heifers. His brother, Jim, won a blue ribbon for a pen of five Angus heifers.

Red ribbon winners for pens of five included Hunter and Jim Ingwerson and their sister, Linnea, who showed two red-ribbon pens of five heifers.

Cass County results in the AK-Sar-Ben beef show last week included the following:

645-895 pound Hereford heifers — blue, Linnea Ingwerson, Plattsmouth; red, Clark Rikil, Murdock.

3-Month Term For Wrongful Use of Auto

In District Court here recently:

Judge John M. Dierks sentenced Roger Allen Stearns, 19, to three months in the County Jail and fined him $100 after Stearns pleaded "guilty" to a charge of "taking an automobile for wrongful use."

The charge had been reduced from "auto theft" in an amended information filed by the county attorney.

Stearns was charged with taking a 1956 Ford belonging to Billy W. Barker from near the Tritsch building on South Chicago Avenue, without Barker's consent.

The judge granted Myrle W. Foster a divorce from Doyle R. Foster and awarded her custody of a minor child.

Judge Dierks also granted Florence I. Bonner a divorce from Emory R. Bonner and awarded her custody of a minor child.

Weather Friday Perfect for . . .

One thing was pretty generally agreed on here Friday as high school football teams around the state prepared for games. . . . It was perfect weather for an open date off the gridiron. Plattsmouth gets back into action this Friday at Westside and plays next at home Oct. 16 against Falls City.

Car Thefts Are Reported

This city was scene of several auto theft cases Thursday night, one in the main part of the city and one near the St. John church.

A 1956 light green station wagon belonging to S-Sgt. Raymond Church had been left parked on North 5th Street as he returned from his duties at Offutt Field last evening. This morning when he sought the car it was found to be missing. It was reported to Police Chief Fred Tesch and at once was broadcast over the traffic radio. A short time later a call from Deputy Sheriff Dick Whitted of Sarpy County reported the car found abandoned near the rendering works near La-Platte.

The car had been stripped of a great deal of its contents, five wheels, seven tires and a battery.

The second stolen car was taken from 812 North Eighth St. a 1956 two-door green sedan with the number 59-12949.

LETTER BOX

To The Editor:

I was a visitor in your city all three days of the King Korn Carnival, and enjoyed it—But there was something lacking. We old-timers have witnessed these annual affairs, and know what makes a good KKK—the Corn-grown right here in Cass County.

Let's think back in the years past what made a good Korn Show. Yes, the committees, the merchants, the farmers, the bands, the city and rural schools, the visiting bands and organizations.—All working together—all of which you still have—but where is the Corn?—quite a ways off Main Street! Let's put Korn back in to the Carnival next year.—Put up the huge tent at 4th & Main where it used to be with its corn, vegetables, fruit etc. display—put it in a convenient spot for spectators—I liked the tent idea best.

Another thing—It hardly seems possible spectators along Main Street who picked their spot early to watch "the goings on" can sit through float after float, watching child after child in costumes, band after band, without taking the least little bit of effort to applaud. Hours may have been spent to create a float or display—or sewing a costume—and it must get pretty hot and sticky beating the bass drum.—a little applause would have made it all worthwhile to the performer.

Sincerely,
"A King Korn Carnival Korrespondent"

NEW PLATTSMOUTH INDUSTRY

The sewing machines were humming at Plattsmouth's newest industry when this picture was taken. Only a part of the Biles Building on lower Main is ready for occupancy but 12 women were busy making "dusters" under the direction of Guy Mason, manager of the local plant of Lamm Manufacturing Co. Shown in the picture are Alamada Forbes, Janet Keil, Charlotte Gall, Mable Exline, Mary Porter, Willie Nickles, Audrey Haecke, Selma Schleps, Cecelia England, Hulda Kelsy, Hazel Freel, Josephine Kennel, "Ronnie" Royer, Karen Thomas, Attlia Strange and the manager Guy Mason. The firm manufactures ladies garments.

Band's To March With, of Course

Susan, 4, Is a Real Parader

Miss Susan Bradley is the mystery girl in a picture which appeared in Thursday's Journal. Miss Bradley was pictured marching alongside the Plattsmouth School "B" (Junior High) Band in the Friday afternoon parade during King Korn Carnival.

It seemed a little odd because Miss Bradley is 4.

Friday her mother, Mrs. John Bradley, told the Journal about the girl's appearance with the band.

Susan, it seems, is an avid parader. She got a baton for Christmas after seeing last year's Carnival parades and being much impressed.

Then, she talked this fall about the parades with her parents, looking forward with anticipation for the time when she could march.

In her conversation, she always told her folks she was going to march "with the band." They thought she just had her terms mixed and assured her she meant that she'd march in the Kiddie Parade the same afternoon as the school parade.

But, it seemed Susan knew what she meant, alright.

She did march in the Kiddies Parade with her baton.

Then, as she and her mother watched the school section of the parade go past from a vantage point at O'Connell's Store, she showed she means what she says.

As the "B" band passed, Susan scooted across the street quick as a wink and took up position alongside the bass drummer. On she marched, down Main Street and back again, her big ambition fulfilled.

Wedding Held at City Hall Saturday

Saturday afternoon Judge J. H. Graves officiated at his office in the city hall in the marriage of Miss Theresa Smith of this city and A. J. Donald O. Syverson of Offutt Air Base.

The wedding was witnessed by Miss Jeanette Cevitnic and Albert L. Wallcut of Fort Crook.

County Board Meets Tuesday

The Cass County Board of Commissioners will meet Tuesday beginning about mid-morning. It is expected that the roads program for the current year will be further discussed.

TB Volunteers From County at District Meeting

Four Cass County TB volunteers actively participated with volunteers from 10 other counties in a district meeting at Cornhusker Hotel in Lincoln to plan the 1959 annual Christmas Seal Sale which opens Nov. 16.

Attending from Cass County were Mrs. LaVell K. Swartz, Eagle, county representative; and Mrs. Joe Johns, Weeping Water, and Mrs. Oliver Schiber and Mrs. Helen Vroman, both of Plattsmouth. The latter three are members of the Cass County Seals Committee.

The Christmas Seal chairman discussed the results of their local Seal Sales and compared them with the state and national figures. The health education chairman met at the same time in a separate session to discuss ways to teach volunteers to use the materials which will help to make the public more aware that there is still a problem with Tuberculosis.

Delmar R. Serafy, Executive Secretary of the Nebraska Tuberculosis Association called this a most crucial year in the history of the TB movement in Nebraska. He said, "Our work is a little more than begun; we have little time to rest when 40 to 50 million Americans are infected with live TB germs. Modern medical opinion is that we cannot rest until we find a drug which actually kills the tubercle bacillus. No such drug exists today. The best drugs today only destroy the capacity of the germ to reproduce itself."

This was the last of a series of eight meetings conducted this month over the state by the staff of the Nebraska Tuberculosis Association.

The Cass County T. B. Association is planning a meeting in October to begin work on their Seals Sales Campaign.
