The Human Race Endures

Practically every speaker, including those on the air and behind the pulpit, and most of the writers for the press, are busy advertising the crisis at hand for human-

This is the day of great decisions, they assert, almost in unison, and, upon the decisions we make now rests the hope of humanity for future years. The general idea is to excite the emotions of readers and listeners, and thus persuade them to "unselfish action" which, it is suspected, they will not accept on the basis of intelligent argument.

While the people of the world do face great difficulties at the present time, there is no reason to believe that they are insurmountable, or that they are unsurpassed in magnitude. Nearly every generation hears the same argument advanced, as men and women battle for political, social, economic and religious aims.

It may be encouraging to note that, so far, the human race has refused to commit suicide. It evidently possesses greater stability than some of its members would have us believe. Modern civilization, despite crises, real and imaginary, continues to spread throughout the earth, and men and women everywhere seem to be making progress toward the goal of better human beings.

There are reasons why the United States, as the wealthiest nation in the world, should make an effort to extend help to the peoples of under-developed and war-torn areas. Intelligent analysis of the world situation lend support to the belief that such assistance will, in the long run, be definitely in the interest of the United States and its people.

There is no use, however, in this connection, to continually cry "wolf, wolf," and depict the fate of humanity as hanging on the ropes, awaiting our action. In fact, the suspicion is becoming general that the people are getting a little weary of the never-ending pronouncements about crises and being told what they must do, or not do, in order to save humanity and preserve civilization. ***

Down Memory Lane

20 YEARS AGO

Sheriff Joe Mrasek and Deputy Sheriff Emery Doody made the arrest of a man longsought as a forger and check swindle artist who has operated in a large number of towns in Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri. The man arrested was A. R. Brown who has been located here for the past five years and engaged in WPA clerical work after the close of the transient camp north of Plattsmouth. The man had pawned a typewriter in Omaha and the officers had sought to question him on this matter when the forger-cases and baggage filled with a large number of suits, shoes and other wearing apparel as well as a new camera and typewriter. One of the grips included the damning evidence of his activities in check books from banks in Columbus, Grand Island, Fremont, Continental Bank of Lincoln, Hastings, St. Joseph, Mo., Sioux City, Ia., Topeka, Kan., Creston, Ia. The man had gone under the name of C. A. Craig, C. A. Conly, A. H. Carter, R. C. Fenton, C. A. Conley, and his operation was to call a bank, make a deposit of $200 or $300 and then go to a business house, make purchases and give a check, later going to the bank and withdrawing the account before the checks were presented. In this manner he was very successful in securing his large wardrobe until caught by the Cass county officers - Vern Hendricks was taken to the Immanuel hospital for treatment for a kidney infection Vera Solomon, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Solomon, underwent an operation for the removal of her adenoids. 30 YEARS AGO The J. E. Lancaster store at Murray, often the scene of looting by robbers, had another call from unwelcome visitors Sunday and as a result, Tom Martin, 25. Kansas City., Mo., is in the county jail here and the officers are searching for the second one of the robbers that escaped from a posse at Murray. The robbery occurred shortly before I a.m. when it was discovered that someone was in the store building and the alarm given. Armed citizens gathered around the building. The robbers scenting that something was wrong, attempted to escape from the building and one of them was successful. The other robber was held until the arrival of Sheriff Bert Reed, Deputy Sheriff braska, on Wednesday, October Rex Young and Pat Reed. The men forced the door of the store using a tire tool, the man covering Martin with a revolver.
