

'Good Pheasant Hunt Saturday'

LINCOLN — Unlike some football coaches who point to next year for better things, Game Commission Director M. O. Steen, his state loaded with pheasants and quail, points to this fall for a banner season.

Almost on the eve of pheasant and quail seasons, which get underway one-half hour before sunrise Saturday, Steen said "hunting was good last year, but it should be even better this fall."

Steen cited tremendous population gains. There are between 40 and 50 per cent more pheasants available this fall as compared to a year ago.

"This puts nine million healthy ringnecks into the field, of which approximately one-half are roosters. Around 70 per cent or 3 1/2 million, of the cocks could be safely harvested by hunters and still there would be more than enough breeders for next year."

Game biologists generally agree that pheasants are underharvested and that some hens might survive the winter if more cocks were harvested in the fall, thus reducing competition for food and cover.

Above average nesting this summer upped the pheasant population considerably over earlier estimates. Hunting regulations are generous, probably could be more so. The state is divided into two zones to take advantage of the greater concentration of ringnecks in the southern and southwestern counties and to alleviate the typical underharvest of pheasants there. Zone 2 has a 4-bag, 12-possession shooting limit; zone 1 a 3-bag, 9-possession top. Rooster gunning continues until Dec. 27. State regulations require that the head plumage and feet be left on all pheasants killed until consumed for sex identification.

Nebraska's bobwhite quail population has exploded to an all-time peak, and gunners in the southeastern counties should better the record-breaking 350,000 bird kill reported in 1958. Quail are estimated at 30 to 40 per cent over last year's populations. Bobwhites are in virgin cover they have never inhabited before. This exceptional population cannot last; hunters take advantage of the opportunity to harvest these great numbers.

The coturnix quail, a smaller and duller cousin of the bobwhite, will turn up in some hunter bags this fall. Many of these birds will be banded and hunters shooting them are requested to send the bands to the Game Commission, Lincoln. Information obtained from the bands aids technicians in determining the success of the three-year coturnix stocking program just completed.

A bag limit of 10 and a possession limit of 20 have been set for a generous 51-day season in the southern part of the state for quail. Season closes Dec. 13. In the northern area, where quail are not as abundant, bag is 7, possession 14 and the season ends Nov. 29.

In addition to possessing a 1959 hunting permit, all pheasant and quail hunters must have a $1 upland-game-bird stamp. Permits are available from the 1,200 permit vendors in the state, as are the free printed copies of the hunting regulations. Hunting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Here's Real Warning for Drivers!

A not-serious car-pedestrian accident Tuesday served to remind motorists here that extreme caution in driving is wise. Nora Jean Case, 5, was struck by a car just west of 10th Street on Main Tuesday morning. Fortunately, the driver of the car, Alfred Molinaro, had a prior warning when he saw a balloon begin to drift over the street.

Molinaro was already applying his brakes after having been driving only 15 to 20 miles an hour. Nora Jean, who had been chasing the balloon, suffered leg and arm abrasions and a bruise on the head, besides bad fright. She returned to kindergarten Wednesday.

She is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Raymond J. Case. Police Chief Fred Tesch said he hoped the accident would prompt drivers to be especially careful when school is in session and cars are parked along streets where children are playing or going to and from school.

GRADE CROSSING — The grade crossing of the Burlington Railroad tracks here went into operation Friday when the railroad erected a barricade to close the underpass for so many years. The underpass now will be only a drainage outlet. The view above was taken from lower Main Street.

FROM THE EAST, the crossing looks like this. Work was still being done on the grade of the road which intersects the crossing approach. The road will lead north past the city water plant to the Game Commission's Wildlife Management Area (old rifle range).

The contestant has a chance in winning the finals which is a $10,000 prize.

Fred Kaufman 72, Hurt on New By-Pass

The first accident on the new Plattsmouth by-pass since it opened this week was recorded Wednesday afternoon about 4:45 p.m.

A farm tractor driven by Fred Kaufman, 72, of Plattsmouth was proceeding West on State No. 66 thru the intersection when it was struck by a northbound cattle truck driven by Vernon D. Kriefels of Nebraska City, the accident report shows.

Kaufman was knocked down on the pavement from his tractor and was rushed to a Nebraska City hospital. His condition was reported as "good" this morning but he was still under observation for head injuries.

Kaufman lay dazed on the pavement with a severe head laceration and was given first aid at the scene by Sheriff Tom Solomon before being sent to the hospital.

Kriefels told Solomon he did not see the Kaufman tractor until it began entering the intersection. Two witnesses said they saw the truck swerve in an attempt to avoid the tractor.

County Bd. Gives Notice Of Policy on Road Work

The Cass County Board of Commissioners Tuesday passed a motion, 2-0, to notify all suppliers and contractors doing business with the county about its policy on conduct of the roads program.

Preparation of a letter of notification followed a long discussion at the last previous Board meeting of the roads program. At that meeting Nolte admitted having been directing road work in District One, hiring machine work and ordering rock.

He said he felt it was the only way his district would receive attention.

Road work in the county is now done on a countywide basis according to an officially adopted program on which a public hearing is held.

The motion Tuesday was by Bornemeier, seconded by Melvin Todd, that suppliers and contractors doing business with Cass County be notified that bridge and road contracts may only be authorized by the county highway superintendent or a majority of the County Board, as follows:

"In order to clear up any misunderstanding which might have arisen with reference to the supervision of roads and bridges in Cass County, the following policies have been established by the County Board with reference thereto.

"Mr. Fred Clark has been appointed County Highway Superintendent and as provided by Section 39-1507 R. S. Supp. 1957 of the laws of Nebraska; has full control, government, and supervision of all the public roads and bridges in the county under the general supervision and control of the County Board.

"Mr. Clark has been directed to carry out the projects contained in the County Roads Annual Program, and has been given authority to order materials, supplies, labor, machine hire and to make purchases within the statutory limitations for the purpose of carrying out the maintenance and construction of roads and bridges in this county.

"By resolution the County Board has directed that no road or bridge funds shall be obligated or expended by anyone other than the County Highway Superintendent without the prior approval of a majority of the County Board. No claims for service or materials will be allowed unless previously authorized by the County Highway Superintendent or a majority of the County Board."

Todd and Bornemeier voted for the motion, Nolte did not vote.

Night Patrol To Be Stepped Up as Hallowe'en Nears

Increased night patrol activity will take place by the sheriff's office with the approach of Halloween night, Sheriff Tom Solomon said today.

Already numerous reports of willful damage are being received. Firecrackers have been placed in mail boxes and other mail boxes have been knocked down.

School District No. 13 located near Union was broken into and items of school and personal property taken. The school was struck last Halloween night and it was believed the youths were from the Union area, the sheriff said.

Solomon urged all school board members to check their schools at night and farmers hearing any explosions near their mail boxes should call immediately.

Country Club Incorporated

Plattsmouth Country Club is being incorporated and plans are proceeding for development of a golf course on a 60-acre plot of land northwest of the city just off the new U.S. 73-75 by-pass.

About 25 or 30 members of a group promoting the golf course met again Tuesday night to begin incorporation procedure and organize committees.

They also officially voted to exercise an option on the 60 acres owned by Ray Larson. Another site southeast of the city had been considered also.

Next in line for the group is collection of funds pledged for purchase of shares of stock in the corporation.

To date, 67 shares have been pledged at $200 per share. Other shares will be sold to anyone interested in owning one, having a vote in management of the course and receiving reduced membership fees.

Other persons have contributed outright to the promotion because of personal interest in that kind of recreation for the community.

The corporation, besides the option to purchase the land for the course, has an option on a strip of ground to provide an access road to the course site.

Tuesday night, a Golf Course Planning Committee was appointed, consisting of Bill Bahbitt, Gus Cloidt, Jim Doody, Dr. R. J. Dietz, Leo Scanlan and Leonard Farrell.

Named on a By-laws Committee were Paul Fumet, Carl Ofe, Jim Begley and Naason Fabbitt.

Lloyd Morehead and Fabbitt were named as a committee to check possibility of getting a Soil Conservation Service dam constructed on the golf course site.

The Course Planning Committee has responsibility for arranging for design of the course. It is hoped that as soon as the corn crop on the land is harvested, steps can be taken to get professional consultation on design.
