Police Court
Traffic cases occupied the chief places on the docket at Judge J. H. Graves city court today. Paul Albirson was charge with "vagrancy," or loitering on the city streets at early morning hours. After hearing the statements given, the court gave a sentence of thirty days in the city jail, then paroled the youth to Chief Fred Tesch, the boy to be in his place of residence by 10 p.m. and remain there until morning. Lane Branton was charged with failure to stop at school stop sign. Hearing was set for Saturday, Oct. 24. Jerry C. Kellison was charged with speeding. Hearing, October 24. Larry Curtis charged with illegal parking in an illegal zone. Fine of $1 and costs total $5. Carolyn R. Wheeler, charged with failure to stop at city school sign stop sign. Fine $5 costs total $9.

TOO SHORT
Oldham, England - Frank Jones, because he is only 4 feet, 4 inches tall, lost his chance for a job but won a wife. The government-owned British Railways turned him down for a welder's job because he was not tall enough. Sarah Cullis, reading about his case, wrote to him and a romance developed. Miss Cullis, who is just four feet tall, and Jones will be married soon. Subscribe to The Journal Now!
