Library Has New 'Edison' Biography

The Plattsmouth Library has received a recently released 500 page Biography of the late Thomas Alva Edison entitled "Edison." Matthew Josephson, author of several best sellers, has in "Edison" brought out a new and more complete concept of America's greatest inventor. Josephson depicts the late Thomas Alva Edison's impoverished childhood, his inventive success and failures, his contributions to industrial development, his bitter fight with George Westinghouse's company and many vivid examples of his talent, ambitions, originality, wit and charm. This with additional background material recently available from Edison archives of the Edison Library, will make "Edison" popular reading for all ages. The new book is now available here for public use.

Work Proceeds on New OPPD Office

LOUISVILLE (Special) — Construction work is going along at a fairly good pace on the erection of the new Omaha Public Power Company District office headquarters building in Louisville.

Weather has not been very good but the contractors have raised the lot a couple of feet and the masons have got some of the walls up about 10 feet. The building is scheduled to be completed about July 1.

Lions Club Smorgasbord Draws Crowd

The day was St. Valentine's; the occasion, the annual Lions Smorgasbord; The result, more than 400 hungry diners sat their appetites with turkey, ham and dozens of complementing foods.

The net result; money for the local Lions Club Charities, including the Boy Scouts.

Every member of the Club not in bed with the flu and a number of wives, put in many hours preparing the feast and in cleaning up after the affair, but they were a happy and grateful group who asked that their thanks be expressed to the folks who ate Sunday dinner. . . (Whoops. . . Smorgasbord) with them.

In addition to the Lions and their wives, many local Boy Scouts helped during the serving hours. They also had the coat checking concession which netted them a tidy sum. They too expressed their thanks for the generosity of yesterday's guests.

The Smorgasbord was prepared under the guidance of Dr. L. A. Amato and Father Robert Hodgson, co-chairmen of the event.

A part of the proceeds will be used to obtain equipment for the local Boy Scouts troop, the rest for various Lions Club charities.
