Back To Railroads

Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey is going back to the railroads. The big circus is taking to the rails again after an experiment of three years, using buses and truck convoys.

It was thought — three years ago — that buses and trucks would be a better mode of travel for the circus, especially since it had cut down its large menagerie of animals — except for elephants, zebras, horses, and eight lions and tigers.

However, it was found that our high way congestion of today was a greater problem than those which occurred on rails. Flat tires, traffic lights, and other complications, brought about the decision to return to the railroad cars.

Down Memory Lane

City police were kept busy in checking reports from residents along Chicago and Washington avenues as well as along the route of highway 75 through the city. It is reported that traffic signs as well as street lights are being removed and broken.

Capitol News

By Melvin Paul Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association LINCOLN—Can you fish on the prairies?

That, says Dave Osterhout, Chief of the State Resources Division, is typical of the lack of knowledge in many states of the benefits of Nebraska.

Continues Osterhout, youthful energetic salesman of Nebraska. "We have found that many people are not aware of the functions of the Resources Division, nor the work that we are doing in our office."

Generally speaking, he says, the division is charged with the development of Nebraska's agricultural and industrial resources.

Through 11 years of existence the division has taken on several functions, which he said are:

"1. First and foremost, the search for new industry, and the development of existing industry.

"2. Study and research on Nebraska's natural resources.

"3. Promoting industrial uses for agricultural products in cooperation with the industrial uses committee.

"4. An urban planning division offering liaison between our cities and the state and federal planning agencies."

Osterhout noted that the division also publishes a monthly magazine designed to better acquaint Nebraskans with "what we have in Nebraska in the way of industry and the work of our division."

Nebraska is crossing the threshold, Osterhout asserts, and "opportunity is ours." He concluded:

"We will make mistakes—the important thing is that we move ahead."

Politics The maneuvering is just about over and now emphasis on politics will shift to the talking stage.

Theories on why there are so many who took out nomination papers from the Secretary of State's office vary. But generally it adds up to "more interest in politics."

Statehouse observers wonder if this interest is symbolic of new interest in government itself and this raises the problems of whether the people will demand more services, or whether there are more people wanting to tighten up purse strings on state spending.

Government in Nebraska has grown by leaps and bounds over the past decade.

This is not only evidenced by the huge increase of money spent for operating government, but by the large number of new boards and commissions that have sprung up in post war years.

As an example, 10 years ago there was no Board of Education, Board of Health, Highway Commission, Board of Nursing, Nebraska.

The same being levied upon and taken as the property of Warren R. Fink, et al. Defendants to satisfy a judgment of said Court recovered by Nebraska Central Building and Loan Association, a corporation Plaintiff against said Defendants, Plattsmouth, Nebraska, March 17 A. D., 1960.

Wheat Commission, Oil and Severance Tax division, nor several others.

Some close to the government scene point out, however, that Nebraska must "keep up with the times." An example, they say, is the Agricultural Products Research Committee, set up by the Legislature to find new uses for farm products.

They also say that the new boards and commissions are the result of demands by the people themselves for new services, though the people sometimes forget that they will have to pay for the services.

Thus, say some political scientists, the coming problem in the next 10 years is the struggle to find revenue to pay for the new services asked by citizens.

Snow Removal One of the big jobs around the statehouse this winter has been to keep the sidewalks and many steps free of snow.

Building Superintendent James Delehant uses crews of men from the state penitentiary.

This, says Delehant, not only keeps the snow off the walks but provides work for inmates of the institution.

The State Capitol is surrounded by eight city blocks of sidewalk, plus a mammoth flight of stairs on the north side of the structure, and entrance to the Statehouse from the sidewalks.

Brooks Illness The illness of Democratic Gov. Ralph G. Brooks has posed some new problems for statehouse newsmen.

Brooks was hospitalized 3 times within a year, once for a mild stroke, once to have some teeth removed and then for a series of ailments combined.

This opened up a new area in government reporting in Nebraska in the last 20 years.

That has produced some problems, such as how much detail should be gone into on specific ailments, and phraseology in describing them.

It has sent newsmen scurrying for medical dictionaries.

This area of public reporting was broached nationally in the case of the first illness of President Eisenhower.

Livestock Trade Has Mixed Start On Omaha Market Livestock trade got off to a varied start this week at Omaha. The Monday cattle and calf runs were up.

In fat cattle trade, scattered early sales of better steers were steady to weak, but most slaughter steers, yearlings and heifers were 25-50c lower or as much as $1 under a week earlier.

Better steers and yearlings Monday sold from $27 to $28.25, latter weighing 1050. Weights to 1400 reached $28 and weights to 1309, $27.75. There were numerous steers and yearlings in a range of $24.50 to $26.75, latter including weights to 1507. Lesser finish sold at $24 down, several lots of Holstein steers $20-21.

The better end of the fed heifer run cleared at $26.25-$27.25, latter weighing 935 more at $24.50-$26, still others $24 down.

Hogs sold steady to strong, instances 25c higher, butchers weighing 190-300, $15-$16.50, top $16.60. Last week's hog top at Omaha was $17.25, highest since last June. Sows Monday at Omaha sold largely steady, 270-550's $13.50-$14.75.

Among recent sales at Omaha for shippers from Cass County: Boedeker & Jacobsen, 73 heifers wt. 992, $27.25.

Chester Taylor, 13 hogs, wt. 232.8, $25.

$99,919 in Bonds For Cass Countyans Cass County residents invested $99,919 in United States savings bonds last month, according to Walter H. Smith, county chairman. He said purchases for the first two months total $201,750 or 22.8 per cent of the county "goal" for 1960.

State wide sales during February were $8,944,353 bringing the two-month total to $22,434,033 for an increase of 10 per cent above the same period of last year. At the end of February, the state had made 20.6 per cent of its "goal" compared to the national average of 18.4 per cent.

THAT DIRTY DOG! Atlanta, Ga. — One of the Atlanta Police Department's new police dogs got his first man. He bit a policeman.

Patrolman Jack Scott said he and his partner answered a call recently and were sitting in their squad car when Patrolman J. F. Harrison drove up in another car with a dog named "Riff."

Harrison and "Riff" went over to the other patrol car. The dog leaped up at the window and bit officer Scott on the hand.
