The undefeated Indians (4-0) lead the Pee Wee League and the Dodgers (4-1) pace the Mid-let League as this week of Summer Recreation Baseball begins at Pollock Field east of the Burlington Tracks.

The Giants in the Pee Wee and the Red Sox in the Mid-let League hold runner-up spots, each with 3-1.

Here's Check! Thieves Try for Campers' Tent!

A Lincoln woman sleeping all night in their car along with her husband thought she was dreaming when she looked out of the car window about 3 a.m. Sunday at the State Lakes in Louisville and saw their new tent slowly disappearing.

She woke up her husband and he pursued the thieves. The thieves dropped the tent but got away with a suitcase of clothing and a portable freezer full of food.

Sheriff Tom Solomon was summoned to the lake area and a group camped along the river is being sought as possible suspects in the theft.

Another outing nearby, three women from Lincoln, sustained loss of a gas lantern and camp cooler as they slept in a tent closely.

Game Wardens Bill Gurnett and Robert Aton along with Solomon "worked" the Louisville area until midnight Sunday in an attempt to trace down the guilty parties.

State Supreme Court Upholds Ruling by Judge John Dierks

The state supreme court has affirmed the action of Judge John Dierks in a $50,000 damage suit tried in Sarpy county district court on April 1959.

Attorneys for the plaintiff, Thomas Markey of Omaha, had appealed on the grounds that Judge Dierks acted improperly in admitting certain photos in evidence.

Young Markey, a minor, had sued Robert Hunter of Thurman, Ia., and Glen Miller of Bartlett, Ia., after a car-truck collision on highway No. 75 north of the Platte river bridge, June 8, 1856.

A district court jury found in favor of the defendants. Mr. Hunter was owner and Miller the driver of the truck involved in the collision with a car in which the Omaha youth was a passenger.

The photo in question was taken after the accident showed how a truck driver could give an arm turn signal that was visible to a vehicle following. Testimony for the plaintiff had indicated the truck box protruded beyond the cab to impair visibility of an arm signal.

Weeping Water Defeats Plattsmouth Legion 9's

Plattsmouth's American Legion baseball teams ran into real trouble at Weeping Water Sunday night and dropped a doubleheader.

Weeping Water's Midlets won 10-5 and the home Juniors earned a 15-1 win in a game called after four and one-half innings because of the 10-run rule.

The Plattsmouth Midlets had trouble getting started and were down, 5-0, after three innings. They tallied two in the fourth and three in the fifth but Weeping Water retaliated with five in the fourth.

Next action for the local Legion teams will be June 28 at Malvern, Iowa, for the Juniors; July 3 here against Greenwood for both teams; July 4 at Glenwood for the Juniors and July 6 here against Bellevue for the Juniors.

Did Accident Take Place in County, City?

The auto death of Larry Luken of Louisville June 19 will be temporarily charged as a county accident and not a city accident, according to Tom Ryan of the State Motor Vehicle Accident Bureau.

Ryan said a final decision will be made when it is determined where the city-county line is in that area where the accident occurred.

Young Luken was eastbound on State 66, which is in the county, crossed Highway 75 and struck the bank on the east side of the highway on highway right-of-way. If the corporate limits of the city join the highway on the east, instead of the past theory of the center of the highway, then the accident occurred in the county.

The State Highway Department advised that a study will be made of the area to determine if more signs are needed for safety measures.

Sheriff Tom Solomon said earlier this year a car containing six children and their parents, also eastbound on State 66, crossed the highway and crashed into the same bank. No injury occurred but the car was a total loss.
