CORRECTION

A Journal introduction to a listing of Cass County election judges and clerks contained an error in information. Where three judges serve on an election board, statute requires that two of them be of the same political party as the person who received the largest number of votes for governor at the previous election.

The Journal said they must be of the party of the "governor in office." Gov. Dwight Burney is a Republican who took office after the death of Democrat Gov. Ralph Brooks.

What to do About ACNE

Most cases of acne can be helped by strict observance of the rules of cleanliness and by regular treatment with a healing and covering preparation.

If an acne condition does not improve, consult your physician without further delay to minimize the possibility of permanent skin damage.
