Cold and Warm Fronts

As winter approaches - it will arrive this year on December 21st at 3:27 p.m. - it is interesting to study the effects and characteristics of cold fronts which will appear ever more frequently from now until the end of winter. To many of us, the term "cold front" means very little. Yet is is a simple weather movement.

The cold front, as experienced on this continent, practically always moves from northwest in an eastward direction. In the United States it usually originates in the Polar areas in northern Canada, and moves down over Canada and into the United States.

The thing to remember about a cold front, when you read that one is coming, is that the weather disturbance occurring as it passes in and over, above, will probably be short. That does not mean the weather will not be cold for several days, but only means that precipitation, wind and stormy weather will probably be relatively brief.

This is because a cold front moves faster across the country than a warm front, and because the front itself usually is not as broad as a warm front. Thus it is not unusual for a cold front to pass in. with a few blustery rain squalls with wind, and produce clear weather in a matter of hours. The warm front, on the other hand, may drag in and bring soupy weather and low-hanging clouds for several days at a time. Warm fronts in the United States usually originate from maritime air masses in the Pacific, or in the Gulf, etc. They also move eastward.

An interesting fact to remember about cold fronts is that the leading edge, or nose, hugs the earth as it moves from west to east. The exact opposite is true about a warm front.

30 YEARS AGO Chicken thieves are again active in Cass county, especially in the vicinity of Plattsmouth, particularly in the Plattsmouth area. They visited the farm of Mrs. Kate Bintner, south of this city and made way with some forty chickens. The family was aroused at an early hour while the thieves were operating,, but the thieves were able to make their getaway along the creek on the farm to the roadway some distance away. Sheriff Bert Reed was called and spent the remainder of the night searching over the country side trying to trace the lines of escape but without success-Edward Fitzgerald, long time resident of Cass county, died at the farm home in the vicinity of Murray following a period of failing health. He was born May 22,, 1858 at Rockfalls, Ill., coming to Nebraska when a young man of 21 He has made his home at Louisville and Plattsmouth since that time. He was daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schlater, pioneers of Louisville. In 1888 they moved to Plattsmouth where he was active in
