Home Ec Week in Nebraska Proclaimed for Nov. 6-12
LINCOLN — Home Economics Week in Nebraska, Nov. 6-12, focus attention on the profession with a dual-role—preparation for a financially rewarding position and a satisfying homemaker career — its sponsors point out.
Governor Dwight W. Burney, in proclaiming the week, described home economics as "the field of knowledge and service primarily concerned with strengthening family life through educating the individual for family living; improving the services and goods used by families; conducting research to discover the changing needs of individuals and families; and the means of satisfying these needs; and furthering community, national, and world conditions favorable to family living."
The annual Home Economics Week is a state-wide effort to interpret to the public some of the meanings of the home economics profession.
"Home Economics is so closely related to patterns of living that it is always a timely field and at the same time a permanent one," says Elaine Ekuclus, Lincoln, president of the Nebraska Home Economics Association. "It deals with subjects that have strong lifelong appeal to most women. It offers a professional level position and good salary immediately after college. Home Economics is excellent preparation for homemaking and is a good career to combine with homemaking."
According to Miss Skucius there are many good job openings for home economists in Nebraska and throughout the country. These include teaching at all educational levels from nursery school through college, research in all the major-matter areas, health and welfare positions, Agricultural Extension Service, business, and in dietetics and institution administration.
At the same time women working in these positions are rendering immeasurable service to individuals, to families and communities, Miss Skucius concluded.

WARNING! Throw Out Old Medicines
Medicine cannot stay "fresh" forever. The passing of time and exposure to the air in the bottle can cause drugs to lose their potency or to evaporate to overly-strong concentrations. The sensible thing to do is to discard old medicines and those where identification or directions have become obliterated. Why not do it today?

Fellow Citizens:
In last week's Journal there appeared an ad headed, "No Roads Roads Roads." The apparent real author of this article, known to many of us, failed to reveal his name to the voters. His motive clearly shows that he is attempting to gain an IN with the County Board without filing for that office. I feel that any facts contained in that article should be reviewed only when the originator and his motive is known.
The Board actions are guided by law. The Board votes as a body on each transaction; calls in the County Attorney for advice; and its books are checked by the State Auditor's office.
As your Commissioner I have not been a "RUBBER STAMP" or a "ME, TOO" Commissioner and WILL NOT BE if re-elected.
I feel that I am best qualified to carry on the progress that has brought the taxpayers of District No. 1 out of the mud. I feel that I am best qualified to sit in as a Board Member and see that District No. 1 gets its fair share of the tax dollar. I feel that as a resident of District No. 1 since 1917 and your County Commissioner for the past twelve years, progress will continue at the least expense.
YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT ON TUESDAY WILL BE APPRECIATED.
Wm. F. NOLTE
REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE
County Commissioner District 1
