Mixed Start on Livestock at Omaha Market

Livestock trade got off to a mixed start this week at Omaha.

A slaughter cattle count of 15,000 Monday sold mostly steady to weak; instances of early strength on steers and yearlings. A 6500 stocker and feeder cattle showing — shortest since late summer — was rated strong. A 19,000 hog run — biggest since December, 1959 — sold 25 to 50 cents lower; fat lambs were 25 to 50 cents higher.

Better slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $26-$27.25, with none in the run like the previous week's 1,253-pounders at $27.75. The steers at $27.25 Monday weighed 1,325-1,450. Other steers and yearlings ranged from $24 to $25.75; plainer cattle 23.50 down. Holstein steers $20-$21.50, odd head higher.

Better fed heifers sold from $25-$25.50, weights to 1,140 included at $25. Bulk of the heifer run cleared at $23-$24.75.

Cows sold mostly steady to weak, $11.50-$16; bologna bulls again to $18.50; vealers again to $23.

Yearling stock steers weighing 550-600 scored $28 in opening trade this week at Omaha, others sold from $24 to $27.50; and there were 929-pound feeder steers at $23.75, plain feeders $19-$21.25. Nebraska feeding heifers weighing 641 hit $24. Wyoming steer calves weighing 351 scored $33.25, and their were other steer calves from $26 to $32, heifer calves $23.50-$27.50; stock cows $12.75-$16.50.

Butcher hogs weighing 190 to 300 started the week in a range of $16.25 to $17.75; sows weighing 250-600, at $14-$16.25.

The 25 to 50 cents upturn on slaughter lambs accrued chiefly to woolled — those clearing at $16.75 to $18.25; shorn $16.50-$17.50. Slaughter ewes held at $4-$6. Feeder lambs were fully steady; Westerns weighing 55-73 went out at $16-$19.50.

Among recent sales at Omaha for shippers from Cass County: Warren Rikli, 38 steers, wt. 1,224, $27.

Elton Blaikie, 27 hogs, wt. 231, $17.75.

Fifteen years after the end of World War II, land mines still are a hazard in the coastal area of Libya. Oil companies spend thousands of dollars a month to clear land mines left by desert armies that crossed the area during the war.
