LINCOLN - More fish and more variety was the theme of the Game Commission's 1960 fish stocking, Fisheries Chief Glen Foster revealed today in a year end report

Over 500,000 more fish were eleased in Nebraska waters in 1960 than the previous year. This included a healthy upsurge of trout releases, and trial plantings of kokanee salmon and redear sunfish.

A total o fnearly 3,500,000 fish were placed in waters ranging from mammoth reservoirs and trout streams to farm ponds and' city lakes. Of this total, over 511,000 were trout.

In 1959, some 2,922,000 fish were stocked, with trout accounting for 442,600 of that.

"We covered every portion of the state last year," Foster said. 'We released everything from spawners to fry, in every type of water that could support fish. reservoirs to farm ponds, from populated east. Most areas got the old favorites - catfish, panfish, bass, but some got new
