WHO SAID "THE GOOD OLD DAYS"?

A yearning for the "good old days" is occasionally felt, but would you really want to turn backward in time? Would you, for example, want to return to even such a comparatively recent year as 1941?

(That was the year in which Consumers Public Power District—a new kind of publicly owned, but privately financed electric utility—began serving Nebraskans in all sections of the state.)

Since 1941, Nebraskans have made great progress. They enjoy better living at every income level . . . they enjoy a stronger economy in general. For much of this progress, the availability of a dependable supply of low-cost electricity, has been directly or indirectly responsible.

	1941	1960
Number of electrical conveniences commonly in use in average home	14	40
Electricity used by average residential customer	805 KWH	3,425 KWH
Cost of electricity per KWH to average residential customer	4.24 cents	2.48 cents
Electricity supplied by Consumers to all types of customers	228,000,000 KWH	1,015,128,000 KWH
Paid by Consumers "in lieu of taxes" to state, county and local governments including school districts	$342,082.00	$828,326.00*

* Plus $273,604 in special rate discounts—making more than one million dollars in support of public institutions.

In order to render this type of service, Consumers has carried on a continuous program of improving its physical facilities. It employs a staff of skilled, experienced personnel—a staff which included 930 permanent full-time employees and 170 permanent part-time employees at the end of 1960.

Meanwhile, the type of long-range planning that brought into existence the new nuclear power and conventional steam power facilities at Consumers' Sheldon Station goes forward . . . thus assuring Consumers' more than 122,000 owner-customers of still greater benefits throughout the years to come.
