CAPITOL CORNER
Congressman
GLENN CUNNINGHAM

Washington, D.C. (Special) — The present official United States flag is illegal. There is a law on the books which states that there "shall be 48 stars" in the flag. Strangely enough, the same law provides that one star will be added each time a new state is added to the Union. So two stars were added by executive order following the granting of statehood to Alaska and Hawaii, making a total of 50 stars, despite the legal limit of 48. There is a bill before the House of Representatives which will change the law to provide that the number of stars will be the same as the number of states, thus taking care of our present 50-star flag and a new states in the future.

Nebraska and many adjoining states were part of the land which the United States purchased from France in 1803... the Louisiana Purchase, negotiated by Thomas Jefferson. A memorial to Jefferson and the other leaders of our young nation who had the foresight to recommend purchase of this land is being built in St. Louis on the banks of the Mississippi River. I was appointed last week by House Speaker Rayburn to serve as one of three members of the House of Representatives on the Commission which supervises this memorial to our territorial expansion.

The House failed last week to block a "back door" raid on the U.S. Treasury. Legislation designed to aid depressed areas carried a provision to allow funds for the program to flow out of the Treasury without specific appropriation by the Congress. A move to strike out this provision failed by a close vote. It is because of programs such as this that Congress does not have control over government spending. There are several more battles coming up over this "back door" approach to the Treasury. The close vote on this first test case indicates a chance for success in future votes.
