How Gas Heat Cools Your Home

The percolator's "no-moving parts" cycle of operation is similar to a Gas Air Conditioner. The long life of a percolator is recognized by everyone... no one has ever had a coffee percolator (as shown above) wear out from use. This simple cycle, with no moving parts... nothing to wear out, break down or lose efficiency; will:

Provide more than twice the life expectancy of ordinary air conditioners
Assure no loss of efficiency with age or operation
Reduce maintenance and repair bills
Maintain low operating cost with no increase with age or use

Your Gas Company stands behind each Gas Air Conditioner installed, assuring service. All these points add up to lowest ownership cost for you. A Gas Company Air Conditioning Consultant will plan and supervise your installation. Terms to suit you can be arranged.
