LETTERBOX

Gentlemen:
Your current series of articles, "Cass Countian of the Week," by Ruth Miller have been outstanding in their subject matter. Of particular interest to me personally were the articles about Mr. Carl Day of Weeping Water, Miss Evelyn Wolph of Nehawka, and Miss Myrtle Wood of Wabash.

My husband and I are native Cass Countians, and formerly lived in Plattsmouth, so the semi-weekly visits of the Journal to our home mean much to us, even though we left Plattsmouth sixteen long years ago. We hope that you will continue the present series of articles about these wonderful people, many of whom are personal friends or acquaintances of ours.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. C. R. Olson
N. 4804 Washington St.
Spokane 19, Wash.

Alvin Bornemier.
Mrs. Fred Stock is in Bryan Memorial hospital and expects to undergo surgery in the near future.

Mrs. Leo Rikli underwent surgery on Friday morning and is recuperating nicely. We are glad to report that little Dale Murdock is showing some improvement, he is in Bryan Memorial hospital also.

Mr. and Mrs. Oral Lupardus are vacationing in Colorado. The Vernon Schewe family are vacationing in Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Mills, Judy and George called at the Clarence Ritter home at Bennet on Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ritter accompanied them and they visited the atomic plant at Hallam then on to Lincoln where they enjoyed dinner together, after which they called on friends and relatives in the hospital.

Mrs. Fred Rudolph of Malcolim had surgery on Friday morning at Bryan Memorial hospital, she is a sister of Mrs. J. F. Mills.

Odd Gillespie has been hospitalized for several days, at present he is at the home of Mr. Paul Guilker of Lincoln.

'Make Every Week Farm Safety Week'

National Farm Safety Week, July 23-29, is a good time for farm families to stop and think of the fact that safety is a family affair.

Many times children are the victims of accidents involving farm families, says Rollin Schlieder, University of Nebraska Extension safety specialist.

In most cases, accidents involving children could have been prevented if they or some other member of the family had adequate training in safety.

Schlieder suggests that each family get together and discuss how they might perform their daily activities in a safe manner.

"If the farm family thinks of safe practices as a means of doing things, rather than as a set of do's and don'ts, accident prevention will become a way of life that will preserve the lives of farm families," Schlieder points out.

It is up to each individual to see that he follows safe practices on the farm, in the home, at play and on the highway. None of us can afford economic loss to say nothing of the personal tragedy wrought by farm accidents.

Let's strive to make every week, FARM SAFETY WEEK.—Clarence Schmadeke, County Extension Agent.

Historical Events Response At Club

Sunbonnet Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Max Bowman Thursday afternoon. Roll call was answered with historical events.

During the business meeting plans were made for the picnic at the home of Mrs. Lee East-ridge in August.

Lesson was given by Mrs. Bowman. The Dawn Redwood, which was originated in China 20,000,000 years ago brought to America in 1948.

Social hour followed. Games were played and prizes won by Mrs. Lee Spry, Mrs. Lee East-ridge and Mrs. Ray Farlander. Hostess served lunch.

Non-Resident Anglers More

LINCOLN—Nonresident hunters may have gotten all the play last year, but nonresident anglers built up an even greater increase, percentage-wise, in permits bought over the previous year.

Figures released today by the Game Commission show that 1960 nonresident fishermen buying annual permits in Nebraska more than doubled over 1959, from 3,290 to 7,850. That is a 139 per cent increase; short-term permit buyers remained about the same.

Nonresident hunters increased a healthy 68 per cent, from 9,700 to 16,350. Non-staters are still less than nine per cent of the total hunters in Nebraska, 188,600 permit buyers in 1960.

Nebraska hunters and anglers remained about static over the two years. Anglers advanced from 187,000 to 191,000. Hunters counted a 2,000 gain over 1959's 170,000.

'Wool Is Year 'round Fabric'

By Mrs. Kay Leiding
Extension Home Agent

On a hot day this discussion of wool apparel seems a bit out of order, but in the next few weeks the fall fabrics will be coming to the local department stores.

Many of you, I'm sure, do some of your own clothing construction and perhaps have done some sewing with woolsens. Oftentimes we hesitate to purchase wool because it seems so expensive.

Actually, is it really expensive? Let's consider the length of season you can wear a wool garment in Nebraska, the number and variety of places you can wear this garment and the minimum amount of care it requires.

Now if you're convinced that it is an economical buy why don't you do some browsing in the yard goods department soon.

If you do your own sewing to ease the family expenses in the clothing area you will be making a greater savings if you make better dresses, suits and coats. Alterations, also, can save a great deal of money if you can provide these services at home.

Surveys show that homemakers who make house dresses and primarily inexpensive types of clothing do not save any noticeable amount of money. In other words, if you fit into this last category you undoubtedly measure your rewards in home sewing as personal satisfaction and individual creativity rather than an economical savings in dollars and cents.

In addition to saving money by sewing better garments and using woolsens there is another reason for this particular promotion.

Each fall the American Wool Council sponsors a MAKE IT YOURSELF WITH WOOL contest which is open to anyone between 13 and 21 who is not a professional seamstress.

The contest is divided into three groups, the sub-deb, junior and senior divisions.

The younger set may model a hand sewn skirt, shirt and sleeveless top or jumper and the two older groups model their own dresses, suits, coats or ensembles.

The district contest is in Lincoln Oct. 14. It would be interesting to watch the style show at the district contest and we can give you more information later this fall. So, for those of you interested in entering this home sewing contest you have from right now until October 14 to make your garment.

One requirement... the fabric must be 100% American loomed wool. Have the sales clerk mark this on your ticket. For more information about the contest contact the County Extension Office.
