Press, Fast Break Devils' Problem?

Plattsmouth High's cage Blue Devils may run into a style of play Friday that they haven't faced this year—a pressing defense and fast-break offense. Their date is at Missouri Valley, Iowa, the varsity game at 8 after the Reserves have played at 6:30.

The Plattsmouth teams will be bidding for second straight victories after their first successes of the season here Saturday night against Glenwood.

Coach Lowell Johnson Wednesday said his squad is in good shape physically with the possible exception of Larry Cadwell who still may not get off the injured list, although he did work out this week.

Johnson said that in spite of Saturday night's rather ragged game, for the first time he could see individual improvement among his players.

This week has been spent largely working on individual assignments—faking, screening and driving.

He plans to start Dan Schultz, 6-2; Roger Beverage, 6-3½ and Jim Ingwerson, 6-5, in the front line; and Denny Campbell, 5-10, and Jack Scott, 5-8, in the back line. Fred Groce who has shown great improvement will see lots of action, the coach said.

Missouri Valley, while it doesn't have an impressive record, already has 7 games under its belt.

Coach Henry Nissen will probably start John Peterson, 5-9; Gary Lane, 6-2, and Gary Krull, 6-3, in the forecourt and Rich Miller, 5-11, and Mike O'Connor, 5-9, in the backcourt.

4-H Lodge at Halsey Gift of Eppley Foundation

OMAHA — The three-year drive by members of Nebraska's 4-H clubs to establish a state-wide camp near Halsey, Nebr., was assured of success today with the announcement the Eugene C. Eppley Foundation of Omaha would provide the camp's key installation.

The Foundation said it would donate the funds for the Central Lodge which will be the mecca for the 15,000 youths expected to attend the camp annually. It will be the central meeting place, dining room and office building for the project.

The two-story lodge will be named the Eugene C. Eppley Lodge in honor of the late hotelman who took great interest in the 4-H movement.

The camp is expected to be open next summer. Construction of cabins, roads and other facilities is already under way.

The camp will have an enrollment of approximately 350 youths at each three or four-day session during the five summer months and additional groups the remaining seven months of the year.

During their stay, the 4-H youngsters will study and learn to understand nature, as well as take training in leadership to fit them for the obligations of adult life.

Frosh Basketball Team Opens 9-Game Schedule

Plattsmouth High School's Freshman basketball squad opened a nine-game schedule this afternoon against the underclassmen at Weeping Water High.

Coach Cecil McKnight expected to start a team of Gary Christiansen, Larry Brink and Ray Spencer in the front line and Bob Couch and Joe Show in the backcourt.

The home opener for the Frosh will be Dec. 21 at 7 p.m. against Bellevue High's Freshmen.

The schedule:

Today—at Weeping Water.
Dec. 21, 7 p.m.—Bellevue, here.
Jan. 11, 4 p.m.—at Ralston.
Jan. 18, 3:30 p.m.—at Nebraska City.
Jan. 25, 4 p.m.—Ralston here.
Feb. 1, 4 p.m.—Nebraska City, here.
Feb. 8, 7 p.m.—at Glenwood.
Feb. 20, 3 p.m.—at Bellevue.
Feb. 22, at 4 p.m.—Weeping Water, here.

McKnight's squad includes Roger Lanum of the varsity squad and Bob McClanahan, Roger Heedum and Leland Pritchard of the varsity reserves.

5,444 Deer Taken by State Rifleman

LINCOLN—Nebraska's deer rifleman enjoyed another successful hunt this fall, even though bad weather threatened to ace them out.

According to the Game Commission, a total of 11,993 permits, slightly under the 12,596, the previous year, harvested more deer. The final count was 5,444 deer in contrast to 5,399 in 1960.

Hunters not only upped their deer kill but also maintained an enviable record with no human fatalities.

Statewide, the deer take was up 2.6 per cent, but individual areas showed considerable variation in success. The Sand Hills unit again was high with 60 per cent of the permit holders taking deer. This had been an excellent producer in the past two seasons.

Greatest success variation was from 75.3 per cent deer kill in Keya Paha to 17 per cent in the Wahoo area where 85 of the 499 permit holders took deer.

The Pine Ridge was the only area showing a decrease in hunting success where either doe or buck deer were taken on the last day of the season. The 2,328 permit holders in the Pine Ridge area took 1,099 deer, a hunting success of 47.2 This was down 2.2 per cent from 1960.

Hunting conditions in the Pine Ridge were unfavorable during the early days of the season. Harrison, with eight inches of snow, and Crawford, with five inches, found deer hunters leaving the area after the first two days. Impassable roads and trails accounted for a pronounced drop in hunting pressure in the Pine Ridge unit.

Keya Paha and the Platte units produced well. Of the 750 permit holders in Keya Paha unit, 565 brought home deer. Of the 999 who obtained permits for deer in the Platte area, 577 were successful.

One of the surprises of the season was in the Upper Platte where 49.4 per cent of the permit holders scored.

Hunting success was generally low in the extreme eastern regions where hunting pressure was directed at the white-tailed deer. Along the Missouri River, the Nemaha unit produced 21.2 per cent hunting success and Omaha unit, 23.4 per cent.

Practically no change appeared in success ratio in the Republican and Loup areas.

This tremendous success reflects the fine co-operation existing between big-game hunters and landowners.

Better Fishing Forecast

LINCOLN—Fishing opportunities for Nebraskans are flourishing following recent stocking of fish by the Game Commission.

According to Glen R. Foster, fisheries chief, 840,000 adults and fingerlings were recently planted along with 6,000 pounds of carp.

Foster said all waters to be stocked are first checked by Game Commission technicians to determine the need for the planting of particular species. Fish are not released indiscriminately, he added.

Farm ponds were stocked in Sheridan, Cherry, Holt, Rock, Antelope, Cuming, Dixon, Dodge, Knox, Pierce, Platte, Stanton, Washington, Wayne, Buffalo, Clay, Fillmore, Gage, Hall, Jefferson, Lancaster, Nemaha, Otoe, Pawnee, Richardson, Salina, Saunders, Seward, and York counties.
