Ag Society Sets Annual Meet Dec. 6

The Cass County Agricultural Society will hold its annual meeting Thursday, Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Auditorium in Weeping Water.
The meeting is scheduled each year and is required by the rules and regulations that govern Agricultural Societies. The purpose is to elect new board members, three this year.
The new board will elect a president and other officers and hire a secretary for the year.
The public can attend the meetings but only members of the Agricultural Society can vote for members of the board.
Anyone can become a member by paying a dollar or anyone who has had an advertisement in the annual Fair Book is a member. Membership will be available at the door of the auditorium.
Anyone who has a gripe, grievance or a compliment should come and make it known, it will help make a better Fair, officers of the Society say.

A Reminder to Answer Christmas Seal Letter . . .

"More persons than ever before should answer their Christmas Seal letter this year to help in the big job of eradicating tuberculosis and controlling other respiratory diseases."
Mrs. Marion Wiles, County Christmas Seal Chairman, said today twice as much money can be spent for research and medical education.
"More new drugs must be found to help those tuberculosis patients who have not responded to present treatment."
"Millions of people suffer from other respiratory diseases, such as asthma, emphysema, pneumonia and chronic bronchitis. Medical research is needed to find the causes and cures of these diseases."
Mrs. Wiles said, "millions of lives have been saved through the Christmas Seal Campaign. Many more can be saved now and in the future through your contribution to Christmas Seals. Answer your Christmas Seal letter today."

'Give Priority To Principles Of Safe Driving'

Col. C. J. Sanders today appealed to citizens throughout the state to give priority consideration to the principals of safe driving during the holiday season as he referred to the mounting traffic toll headed for a new all-time high in Nebraska for 1962.
"As we all reflect on our blessings this Thanksgiving season," Sanders said, "let us give particular attention to the value of family unity and family security and how often these are threatened or lost because of traffic accidents."
"And, recognizing the fact that most such accidents involve illegal, thoughtless or discourteous conduct by one or more drivers, may we also realize that only the strictest compliance with traffic regulations and the most careful consideration for the welfare of others will assure a happy holiday season free from accident experience."

Alvo Youth Has Compositions in Westmar Anthology

Robert Neben, a student at Westmar College, Le Mars, Iowa, recently contributed an Impromptu, "The World: My Responsibility" and a Process, "How to Operate My VE." to the 1962 edition of Westmar's student-writing anthology.
Published as a project of the English Department, the new anthology will contain approximately 50 pieces of expository and creative writing written by 28 students.
The selections were made by a special evaluating committee of five students from among more than 100 compositions submitted for consideration. All of the writing was done by class members enrolled in the advanced expository writing, creative writing, and freshman English courses on the Westmar campus.
Robert is the son of Mrs. Meta Neben of Alvo.

A Good Reason
"Pilot to control tower! Pilot to control tower! I'm coming in, please give landing instructions."
"Control tower to pilot! Control tower to pilot! Why are you yelling so loud?"
"Pilot to control tower! I don't have a radio!"

COMBINING GRAIN on the McReynolds Farm, north of Alliance in 1931. It was the first time in that region that two combines were pulled by one tractor. About 11,000 bushels of wheat were harvested from 500 acres in 12 days.

—McReynolds

to the local mill—in our case Factoryville.
"Farmers butchered their hogs, salted some down and smoked the rest in smoke houses, after which the meat was hung and used as needed. Rabbits were abundant as well as squirrels and an occasional jack rabbit.
"Deer were common, along the creeks and prairie chickens very abundant, occasionally wild turkey and bobcat. There were no foxes here in the 1890's."
Mr. McReynolds attended the Nehawka school and then graduated from Lincoln Business College in 1910.
In 1916, he began his own share of pioneering, buying a rough farm near Nehawka of which only five acres were in cultivation. He built a 12 x 16 house on the land and began to clear timber, finding a market for it at Nehawka and Weeping Water and sending several carloads to Omaha and Lincoln.
The next step was to clear the stumps. This required 9,000 pounds of explosives. Then a tractor and two-horse walking plow broke up the brush. Mr. McReynolds still owns this land.
In 1928 he bought one of the earliest combines in the county: "an innovation in the ways of harvesting in eastern Cass County and the first one east of the Murdock-Alvo area."
In 1928 his brother Elmer moved out to Alliance and planted 500 acres of wheat. Alvin shipped his machine out to help harvest—probably the only time two combines were propelled by one tractor.
Alvin McReynolds has been very active in the county for many years. He assisted in the organization of the Historical Society and is a former president. He has served on the school board, been Justice of the Peace, and Village Treasurer of Nehawka.
He was World War II Chairman of the Cass County Selective Board, a job which he held for 6 years with no compensation.
For 12 years he has been a director of the Eastern Nebraska Public Power District and is secretary of the Weeping Water Chamber of Commerce and president of the Mount Pleasant Cemetery Association.
In the last 3 or 4 years he and his wife Nan (Olson) have traveled—mostly by air—about 60,000 miles. They have visited South America, Canada, Hawaii, and Mexico as well as Europe.
Mr. McReynolds has long been interested in archeology and lists among some of the most interesting things he has seen the mummified body of Pizzaro, the conqueror of the great Inca empire and the palace of Cortez, the Mexican conqueror, at Cuernavaca, Mexico.
He also especially enjoyed the Palace of Versailles, the Roman Coliseum, and the 134-mile long catacombs.
Mr. McReynolds has a brother at Alliance and a sister, Mrs. Gilbert Kime at Nehawka. The Kime land includes part of the land of the old McReynolds place and land belonging to Gilbert's grandfather, S. M. Kirkpatrick, Nehawka's first settler and an early legislator.
Now before I close this history, I'd like to add an interesting story which comes down through the Hoback side for the family.
The first John Hoback in the family was Alvin's great-grandfather's uncle, an adventurer, trapper and explorer. He came up the Missouri River in 1807, trapping for the St. Louis Fur Company.
He was one of the first to cross the Rockies and discovered back River.
Now there is also a Hoback Peak and Hoback Canyon. 1810 or '11 and the three dauntless Kentucky hunters with whom he had gone out were coming back down the Missouri when they met the Astorian expedition. Hoback's party had been robbed by the Indians and so the sight of another party was welcome indeed.

As it turned out, the Astorian expedition needed a guide across the Rockies and Hoback and his friends agreed to go.
The men had been following the trail of Lewis and Clark but Hoback knew the Blackfoot Indians were on the warpath so they skirted the Black Hills and went on down Wind River Canyon, then down Hoback River, and finally into the Snake River Country.
Once they were across the Rockies the four trappers established a rendezvous and stayed behind to trap but the Indians found them there and massacred them.
One of the men, named Dorian, had taken his wife and two children along and somehow this woman escaped the Indians and with her children made her way back across the Rockies to a white settlement, but they were the sole survivors of the party.
