'Common Market Benefits to U.S. Outweigh Losses'

GRAND ISLAND—"The economic and political benefits to the U. S. from a more united Western Europe through the Common Market appear to outweigh the possible losses from increased competition in the world markets and from adjusting our exports to the changing demands of the Community," a University of Nebraska Extension farm economist declared here.

Dr. E. E. Peterson cited these elements of U. S. strength in a talk at the annual Crop Improvement Days: "The European Economic Community needs access to the U. S. market for its industrial products;—A highly self-sufficient food policy is unlikely in view of consumers' reaction to rising food prices and of farmers' declining political power in all Western European countries;—The comparative advantage of the U. S. in agricultural production is important in trade negotiations;—The continuing need of the area for U. S. military support in defense against the Eastern bloc of countries.

"Maintaining and expanding the market for U. S. products in Western Europe will require continual negotiation and market development and servicing and the willingness to accept imports," Dr. Peterson declared. "The U. S. will gain from a politically stable and economically strong Western Europe, but at the cost of increased competition in international markets and greater bargaining power for the Community as compared with separate countries. Economic aid from the U. S. to the area has nearly ended; a reduction in military aid can be expected as these countries become able to assume more of the defense burden.

The Community will become more nearly a full partner in aid to underdeveloped areas. With reasonable trade policies in the U. S. and the community, trade between these two large economic areas should expand in the years ahead."

Morrison To 'Push' for Key Legislation

BY MELVIN PAUL
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN—Governor Morrison has served notice that he is going to do his utmost to get several of his key recommendations enacted into law.

One would be to establish a separate department of economic development. And the other is his proposal for a 10-year improvement program for higher education. He has indicated that his suggested budgets for education are what he considers the minimum that can be appropriated to get an adequate job done.

Morrison said he feels so strongly about setting up the new department and about higher education needs that if the Legislature doesn't agree with him, he will seek another gubernatorial term.

In the past Morrison has frequently stated he was not interested in serving beyond his present term. He did emphasize that any rumors about him running for the U. S. Senate two years hence are "totally unfounded and false."

The reaction from some of the legislators to Morrison's statements was generally that the Legislature would not be "pushed."

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, chairman of the powerful budget committee, said during the next four months the committee will be gathering much pertinent evidence and testimony regarding budgetary matters. He indicated also that the committee will be much more inclined to base its recommendations on that evidence and testimony than on the suggestions of the governor.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha said he is sure "facts and figures will prevail in the Legislature."

The governor said he is certain his budget was among the most modest of any offered by any governor in the 50 states. If it is implemented, he added, "it will keep Nebraska as a per capita tax basis."

Among specific recommendations for stable general fund appropriations in Morrison's budget was $33 million for the University of Nebraska up $5 million from the 1961-63 figure; $7.5 million for the normal schools up about $1.5 million; $15.7 million for the department of public welfare, up about $1.3 million and $13.3 million for the department of institutions, up about $2 million.

He also proposed raising about $11 million for the general fund by increased cigaret, liquor, and pari-mutuel taxes, along with higher driver license fees.

Support Proposal

Chairmen of the state Democratic and Republican parties have strongly endorsed legislative bills to close the gap between the primary and general elections and to have state party conventions elect the delegates to the national conventions.

Under bills introduced by Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln, the primary would be moved from May to September and the state conventions—rather than the voters—would decide who will serve as national convention delegates.

Both chairmen said the proposals would result in better candidates, better elections and better government. They also believe action should be taken to elect the Unicameral on a partisan basis.

Hanson expressed doubt action would be taken this year because "so many of the legislators are reluctant to act on a proposal until it has been considered several times... but I think the bills should be passed this year."

According to Denny, the success of the bill will depend on how much the Legislature listens to the organized parties.

Both agreed the delay between a May primary and a November general election is too long a period to keep public interest stimulated.

New Appointment
Governor Morrison has appointed A. H. (Harlan) Story of Plainview to the State Game Commission.

He succeeds Clem Ballweg of Spalding who was appointed to fill the vacancy when Sen. LeRoy Bahensky of St. Paul resigned to run for the Legislature. Story is a 41-year-old farmer. He is national vice president of Izaak Walton League.

Under a bill introduced in the Legislature at least two members of the Game Commission would have to be farmers or ranchers. Another bill calls for doubling the number of commissioners from seven to 14. Of the total, seven would have to be actively interested in tourism.

CAUTION: Stay away from Wild Animals!

LINCOLN—Wild animals are becoming an increasingly dangerous source of rabies according to Dr. E. Crosby Howe, University of Nebraska Extension Animal Hygienist.

Skunks, foxes, squirrels, coyotes, and bats are the most commonly affected wild animals that can spread rabies to man, livestock, or pets. In view of this situation, Howe advises the following precautions:

1. Stay away from wild animals that act strangely or appear friendly. Wild animals instinctively avoid people unless they are ill.
2. If you own a dog or cat, protect it and yourself by having it vaccinated for rabies.
3. If bitten by an animal, wash the injured area thoroughly with soap and water. See your physician immediately.
4. If bitten, try to capture the animal alive by using a snare, trap, or net. It is often impossible to diagnose rabies in the early stages of the disease. Cage the animal and take it to a veterinarian or public health official for observation. If you must kill the animal, be careful not to damage the brain.
5. If rabies is prevalent in the area, do not examine mouths or throats of sick pets or livestock.

HERO'S SON TO GRADUATE

West Point, N. Y.—The son of America's first flying hero of World War Two, Colin P. Kelly 3rd, will graduate from the United States Military Academy in the spring—completing an order issued in 1941 by the late President F. D. Roosevelt.

Colin was just one year old when his father, Capt. Colin P. Kelly Jr., gave his life to crash his plane into a Japanese warship.

President Roosevelt ordered a reservation at the Academy. President Eisenhower offered an appointment, but young Kelly turned down Eisenhower's offer and made it on his own.

Richard B. Russell, Senator (D. Ga.): "We will take advantage of every opportunity to expose the iniquity of gag rule in the Senate."

Everett M. Dirksen, Senator (R. Ill.): "I find a general indifference to this rules fight, except by the crusaders."

Wear thick rubber gloves when handling these animals. Use extra ordinary caution to prevent bite or scratch wounds.

April 1 Deadline For Registration Of Boats in State

LINCOLN—Boaters have until April 1 to register their craft for the 1963 season, the Game Commission said.

Owners may operate their boats on the 1963 permit until that time. The new boat decals are black and international orange. They are to be applied in the same place as the 1962 decals—in the same horizontal plane and to the left of the state identification numbers.

New boat owners may operate without numbers or decals only seven days from the date the craft is purchased.

Registration procedures are the same as last year. Application and information leaflets are available at county clerk and county treasurer offices, from all fishing and hunting permit vendors, and at the Game Commission offices.

Certification of assessments and taxes appear on the boat application form. These certificates must be completed and signed by the county treasurer to make sure the individual is not delinquent in any personal taxes.

The county assessor then will verify that the boat has been assessed for 1963. All certificates must be completed by the county assessor and county treasurer in the county where the boat is kept.
