Amendments Added to Controversial LB 220

By MELVIN PAUL
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — A comparatively calm atmosphere prevailed at the Capitol for six days when the lawmakers took time out from their busy schedule for the Easter vacation break. Early in the session the legislators decided they would work the Thursday morning before Easter and return at 10 a.m. on the Wednesday following Easter. But they changed their minds and tacked an extra half day onto the vacation period and left for home at the close of business on Wednesday, April 10.

Before they did, the senators gave preliminary approval to one of the highly controversial public power measures, LB 220. The first round OK came after three mornings of debate were devoted to the proposal.

As it finally headed across the legislative board, the bill carried the emergency clause. This means it will become effective upon the governor's signature.

One of the key provisions calls for establishment of a public power review board which will referee disputes among power districts. Another section stipulates that the state's power districts must agree before July 1, 1964, on what retail service areas they will serve. In the event disagreements arise on this point, the review board will take over.

One of the last amendments to be incorporated into the bill provides that municipally-owned electric utilities shall be given special preference when acquiring new loads within a city's zoning area.

The bill also empowers the review board to approve all major new generation transmission facilities and to exercise advisory authority over rate disputes between power districts.

Just before the measure received its initial approval, another amendment was added which provides that the various power districts shall pay for the cost of the review board. The districts will be assessed on their gross income to defray the board's costs. It was estimated that $100,000 will be needed annually.

Senators Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth and Don Thompson of McCook claimed that enactment of the bill would be a "big step" forward in settling the state's many public power problems.

Ruhnke is chairman of the public works committee which thrashed out the details of the measure during many hours of special committee meetings.

Since the bill received a thumping vote of 39-0, it appeared it would have little difficulty making it to final passage.

Mixed Start for Light Early Run At Omaha Market
Fat cattle trade lagged while other livestock sold steady to higher in opening trade this week at Omaha. The Monday run was down a bit, except in sheep.

Slaughter steers weighing 1180-1329 and fed heifers weighing 959-1000 scored $23.75; other steers and yearlings ranged from $21.50-$23.60, other heifers $21.50-$23.50, latter as heavy as 1090. Plainer cattle went at $21 down; Holstein steers weighing 1318, $20.50.

Cows sold steady to firm, bulk $13-$16, better beef cows to $16.50, odd head even above that.

Stockers and feeders sold steady — feeder steers 850 pounds up, most of these showing gain, to $22.75 and $23; 575-pound Idaho stock steers to $29 and weights to 628 at $28; 510-pound stock heifers to $26.50.

Butcher hogs sold strong to 25c higher, weights from 190 to 360 $12.50-$15, latter best in more than a month; sows steady to strong, 270-800's $11.50-$13.

Fat lambs were mostly steady to strong, instances 50c up on Spring lambs—those to $21; old crop woolled to $20.50 and shorn to $19.25. Slaughter ewes sold firm to 25c up at $5.50-$7.75.

Among recent sales at Omaha for shippers from Cass County:
Mel Todd & Son, 23 steers, wt. 1240, $22.50.
Merle Meyers, 6 steers, wt. 1120, $22.50.
Elmer Stoll, 12 steers, wt. 972, $22.90.
Ray Eveland, 7 steers, wt. 1182, $23.00.
Richard Spangler, 11 steers, wt. 1202, $23.50; 30, wt. 1235, $23.25.
Marvin Wendt, 28 heifers, wt. 919, $23.25.
Ralph Krause, 20 hogs, wt. 212, $14.50.

members of the Legislature would be elected on a partisan ballot made it out of the government and military affairs committee.

But it didn't last long because the very next day the committee got together and killed the proposal.

This immediately triggered comment from state GOP chairman Robert Deoney of Fairbury that "such action is extremely puzzling to the general public, since opponents of this bill discussed the danger of back room politics by having a partisan Legislature."

Deoney said, "to my mind this type of action by the committee gives one the impression of back room politics that is not in the public interest and I therefore strongly urge all other state senators to bring this bill out on the floor for a vote by the entire Legislature."

Officials of both the Republican and Democratic parties had given the bill their backing. In the past the legislators have generally expressed the view that the nonpartisan feature of the Unicameral is desirable. They argued it gave the lawmakers more freedom of action in following their convictions because it did not bring them under the influence of a political party.

Hugo Srb, the only clerk the Legislature has had since inaugurating the Unicameral system, told the government committee that Nebraska's present system is "the best in the nation." He urged the committee not to tamper with it.

Osteopath's Bill
The public health committee has killed LB 663 aimed at licensing osteopaths for the practice of medicine and surgery if they pass the examination of the state board.

Through the years repeated attempts have been made to get such a bill out of committee and on the legislative floor for full debate, but the measure has been axed with regularity by the committee.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who submitted the bill this session, said he will attempt to revive it. He had said he thought the measure had a chance of passage this session.

Osteopaths claim their medical training includes that required for MD's and they should be entitled to take the state board exams and if they pass them to practice in Nebraska.

The osteopaths said they want "fair practices for those who qualify" but the medical doctors charged the osteopaths "are trying to do through legislation what they can't meet through educational background."

Stove Creek Rustlers
The Stove Creek Rustlers 4-H Club met at the home of Shirley and Anna Jean Albers to start the Eastgating Tour April 13 at 1 o'clock.

After seeing everyone's calves, members ended up at Clayton Miller's house. Vice President Linda Pool called the business meeting to order; 10 members and eight visitors were present.

Literature on Shorthorn cattle was handed out. Members talked about the different cattle shows coming this summer.

Mrs. Miller served lunch. Next meeting is planned for May 13 at 8 p.m. at the home of Theron Bornemeier. — Nancy Miller, reporter.

The committee members said a history of the state's native grasses should definitely be a part of the centennial program because native grass is so closely tied to the state's economy. Species which were a part of the natural vegetation in Nebraska when the white man first arrived on the scene were: blue stem, sand blue stem, prairie seed reed, side oats grama, blue grama, hairy grama, switch grass, Indian grass, western seed grass, needle grass, and prairie corn grass.

Individuals who are eligible can draw allowances while in training. The training is being offered under the Manpower Development and Training Act.

Application for training must be made through the local Division of Employment Office.

Perky Pixies

ELMWOOD (Special) — Perfect attendance and three demonstrations were highlights of the April 11 meeting of the Perky Pixies 4-H Club at the home of Janet Pratt.

The meeting opened with the 4-H Pledge and songs. Members looked at pictures of place mats for roll call and chose ones with the best designs.

Sandra Brummer, Brenda Brummer and Brenda Wolcott gave a demonstration on snickerdoodle. Afterward members judged cornbread they had brought.

Janet Pratt and Cheryl Hollenbeck showed how to fringe an edge of a luncheon cloth. Carol Wilken and Sharon Drake demonstrated how to decorate a luncheon cloth.

Members judged table settings by the number method. The hostess served cake and ice cream sandwiches. Next meeting will be April 25 at the home of Brenda Wolcott.
