'Stay Alive,' Sanders Urges

Col. C. J. Sanders, Nebraska Safety Patrol, urged drivers today to stay alive this Memorial Day weekend with sensible driving.

He said, "It is nothing short of an American tragedy that each Memorial Day we add more names to the roll of the dead to be remembered because of traffic accidents. Last year, it was five in Nebraska, how many will it be this year?"

"The normal flow of traffic this year is seven per cent over that of last year. With holidays, such as Memorial Day, we can expect an even greater flow of traffic," he added.

The Safety Patrol urged motorists to get an early start, drive at safe speeds, pass only when absolutely safe to do so, drive defensively and remember that long hours of driving mean exhaustion at the wheel.

Nebraska 31st In Permit Sales

LINCOLN — Nebraska ranked 31st among the 50 states in the sale of fishing permits during 1962, according to an announcement from the U. S. Department of Interior and the Nebraska Game Commission.

M. O. Steen, director of the commission, said 221,307 Nebraskans purchased permits during 1962. Nebraska received $469,054 for fishing permit sales.

California led all states with a total of 4,495,742 fishing licenses, tags, permits and stamps issued during 1962. Minnesota was second with 1,308,851 and Michigan third with 1,115,136.

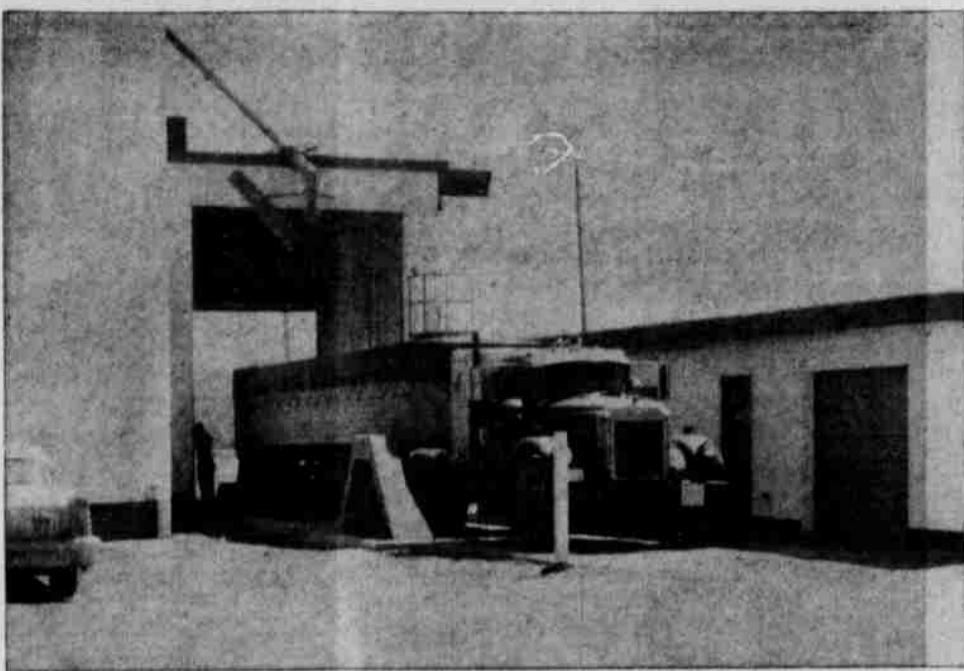

Although the number of sport fishermen is large, millions of others who go fishing are not required to purchase a license. Surveys of fishing and hunting conducted by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife indicated there are more than 25 million sport fishermen 12 years or older in the United States.

Unlicensed fishermen include most of those who fish in salt water along the coasts and people who are exempt from license requirements because of age, veteran's status or other reasons.

WHEAT ARRIVES—A semi-truckload of about 700 bushels of wheat grown in Nebraska or eastern Colorado arrives at Equity Union Grain Company's terminal elevator at Rock Bluff south of here on the Missouri River . . .

UP AND OUT!—The load is weighed quickly and then unloaded in a few minutes as a huge hydraulic hoist tips the entire truck and tractor to empty the wheat into an underground bin . . .

STORED—Soon the wheat is elevated into one of the cluster of silos which combined hold 265,000 bushels. The grain is shipped by river barge, most going to New Orleans for export. More than 2 million bushels of wheat followed this course through the Rock Bluff terminal the past year.

Chadron Park

LINCOLN — Chadron State Park set another attendance record last year when 221,030 persons visited the area, indicating the popularity of the park.

Chadron was established in 1919 and is now under the parks division of the Game Commission. The park is located nine miles south of the town of Chadron on U. S. 20 and 385.

A wide variety of activities makes Chadron a favorite of many people. Swimming, horseback riding, camping, fishing and boating are just a few of the sports offered.

Swimming is especially inviting because of the new fan-shaped pool complete with a wide apron for sunbathing. Horseback riding through the pine-covered buttes is reminiscent of the days of cowboys and Indians.

Fishing opportunities are many. Chadron Creek, which flows through the park, provides many hours of trout fishing. The lagoon in the park offers trout along with bass, bluegill, and crappie. The White River is just a few miles to the north.

Group camps are one of the biggest drawing cards. The camps operate the entire summer for such events as 4-H conventions, church groups, music clinics, and others.

The 16 rental cabins are ideal for the vacationer. They are equipped with beds and linen, stoves, refrigerators, and dishes. Each cabin is a double unit set in a secluded site.

For the adventurer, Indian burial grounds are near the group camp where graves and artifacts have been unearthed. Just a short drive from Chadron are the famous Nebraska Badlands, a rock hunter's paradise.
