Cancer Fund

The co-chairmen today said about Cancer:

Too many people think of cancer as a disease that strikes only adults, especially older men and women. This belief is one of the heartbreaking tragedies in handling cancer in children.

The fact is that cancer is the leading cause of death from disease among school children. Some 4,800 will die of it this year if present rates continue. And the death rate from childhood cancer has increased from 5.2 for each 100,000 population to 8.1 during the last 30 years.

One of the problems in dealing with childhood cancer is the unhappy fact that too many of the cancers are treated too late. Physicians tell us that an increasing number of five, ten, twenty-year and even lifetime survivors show that treatment when started sufficiently early can often preserve life.

If more parents realized that children do get cancer and if they acted promptly in seeking medical advice more children could be saved. Improved techniques in radiology and surgery offer new opportunities for survival and possible cure.

Even for leukemia, cancer of the blood-forming tissue, which is the most critical cancer problem among children, there is a promise of hope. Newly developed drugs make it possible to extend the lives of many leukemia patients from months to years of useful life. Now there is growing evidence linking viruses as a possible cause of leukemia. If this should be found to be true, then a vaccine might be developed. The conquest of leukemia alone would eliminate the tragic loss of life of over 2,300 children each year.

The American Cancer Society is investing many thousands of dollars each year in research on cancer in children. They are putting more funds into leukemia research than in any other group. Now is no time to slacken this research effort. Instead, it should be stepped up. Bear this in mind when the American Cancer Society asks you to make a contribution to the 1963 Cancer Crusade.
