Farm Boys Eligible For Scholarships

Farm Boys who are now seniors in high school are eligible for two $400 Federal Land Bank scholarships, according to J. D. Berkeley, manager of the Federal Land Bank Associations of Lincoln and Weeping Water. Berkeley points out that the scholarships are for boys who are planning to begin study this fall at the College of Agriculture, University of Nebraska.

The scholarships which have been awarded for the past 12 years, are intended to encourage boys of outstanding ability to continue their education in agriculture.

A past winner from the area is Darrell Stekman, Waverly, who won a scholarship in 1962, and Larry Osenkop, Walton, who won in 1963.

Application blanks for the Land Bank scholarships may be obtained from the high school superintendent at the time of the Regents' Examination which will be held Nov. 6, 1963. Applications must be submitted to the University of Nebraska, College of Agriculture, Lincoln, before Jan. 1, 1964.

New Array of Fabrics Included In Outdoor Jackets

LINCOLN — "If you're looking for outdoor coats that would make good school wear, you will find a new array of fabrics from which to choose in clothing stores," says Gerda Petersen, Extension clothing and textiles specialist at the University of Nebraska.

There are firmly woven outer fabrics combined with fiber-fill bats quilted to the linings, pile knit linings or quilted or fused polyurethane (plastic) foam. There has been an increase in the use of cotton and synthetic fibers in outer wear. Comfortable clothing for cold, windy weather does not depend so much on the kind of fiber as on the way yarns and fabrics are made, the specialist pointed out.

"If a fabric is slightly porous, excess body heat is allowed to escape and perspiration evaporates. Since people feel uncomfortable when moisture collects on the skin, a completely wind-proof fabric would be uncomfortable," Miss Petersen stated.

The heavy fabric is not always made. Fabrics that are good insulators are made with many air spaces between fibers and yarns. Some of the best insulators are thick woolen coating, fiber, fill bats, and sheets of polyurethane (plastic foam).

"A single fabric can't be both a good windbreak (slightly porous) and a good insulator (thick) at the same time. As a result, coats are made of layers of fabric such as an outer material, an interlining and a lining. Usually the outer fabric is the windbreak and the lining or interlining the insulator," Miss Petersen concluded.

$254,190 in Furs For State Trappers

LINCOLN — NEBRASKA and trappers cashed a quarter of a million dollars worth of furs during the 1962-63 statewide trapping season, the Game Commission reports.

The calculated statewide fur harvest for the season showed an increase of almost 17 per cent over the previous season. Trappers took a total of 157,889 furbearers for an average of almost 65 animals per trapper. Their monetary return averaged $104 for each active trapper and the total calculated value of the harvest was $254,190.

Last season's harvest also showed an increase of more than 21 per cent over the past five-year average, M. O. Steen, Commission director, said. Data was based on questionnaires sent to 2,314 of the 2,736 persons purchasing trapping permits for the 1962-63 season.

Bowmen Take Break

LINCOLN — NEBRASKA and bowmen will take a short breather before taking to the field again after the rifle deer season. Archers must put up their bows during the nine-day rifle season on deer, which opens Nov. 2, the Game Commission reports. The first half of the archery deer season closes a half hour after sunset on Nov. 1, M. O. Steen, Commission director, said.

Welders of the long bow may resume their stalking of mule deer and whitetails a half hour before sunrise on Nov. 11. Final closing date on archery deer is Dec. 31. The entire state is open territory for bowmen. Bowmen have taken 135 deer thus far this season.
