WESTERN NEWS-DEMOCRAT

ROBERT GOOD, Editor and Publisher

This is a popocrat year.

W. R. Towne is the best county judge we have ever had.

So far as we know, but one outfit is working or talking against Towne for county judge, and they are doing it only because he decided a case against them a short time ago. Vote for Towne.

From reports received from the south, Alex Burr will be elected commissioner of the second district by a vote of at least two to one. This is said in sober earnest, and is vouched for by scores of voters in that district.

If Pete Donoher is elected clerk he will not pigeon-hole a proposition to be voted upon, until it loses its legal standing. Neither will he be so hidebound that he will not allow a member of the opposite party to examine the public records and property.

Dr. A. N. Compton is a young man who is rapidly making a reputation for himself in his chosen profession. The office of coroner is a poor one from a financial standpoint, but if Dr. Compton is elected thereto it will assist a worthy young man to greater fame and fortune.

From private advices we learn that the Omaha Bee contemplates attacking Harrington and Westover this week. The fact that the attack is held until just before election, is prima facie evidence that anything said is false, or at least will not stand investigation. Watch out for roobacks.

It comes to our ears that the opposition are claiming that Pete Donoher is a drunkard and a gambler, and that he has never "made his own living." No report could be more false than this, and if the very depths of hell were searched a place could not be found suitable for its originator.

Popocrats should be on the lookout for campaign circulars between now and election day, in regard to the local campaign. This is a favorite method of working used by a few politicians of a certain stripe, and we are informed will be resorted to after this paper is gone to its subscribers. Pay no attention to them.

"Promise them anything but vote the ticket straight," is the advice of republican bosses to all doubtful voters in their camp. Not content with campaign lies and mudslinging, hypocrisy must be resorted to. It was because of such tactics as those that made Mrs. Crawford tell them, "I am not your kind of a republican."

Vote the fusion ticket straight. Vote it because the politics of every nominee is right; vote it because every candidate has a clean record; vote it because every nominee is the moral equal and the mental superior of his opponent. Vote it because you believe in good government and not ring rule; vote it because every one on the ticket will fearlessly discharge his duty regardless of consequences, knowing neither friend nor foe, in his official capacity.

We don't ask you to vote for Mrs. Crawford for superintendent for charity's sake; we don't ask it because nobody else is eligible; we don't ask it alone because she is a woman; we don't ask it because of the money the office spends with the printer; we don't ask it on political grounds alone; but we do ask it because she is better qualified both in experience, education and judgmental power than is her opponent. The republican nominee is a real nice little lady; Mrs. Crawford is a superb lady. The republican is a good teacher; Mrs. Crawford is an educator with a state reputation.

When Commissioner Trowbridge was here last he told the editor and others that he never expected to attend another meeting of the board, for the reason that he had sold his place and expected to leave the state before spring. Under those circumstances it seems to us that he should have at least given his constituents a chance to elect his successor. But no, the politicians know the people protest against the present administration, and to save their necks they prevail upon Trowbridge to not resign until after election, when the republican officers can make the appointment. If the fusion ticket is elected, the resignation will be tendered at once so as to that far defeat the will of the people. It is a pretty scheme but we never supposed Trowbridge would lend himself to such a dirty piece of politics and in a great measure disfranchise his own constituents. The old boat is leaking.

You republicans who are so industrially circulating stories about Bryan, to the effect that he charges and collects from $200 to $400 for each speech he makes in the campaign must either put up the proof or be branded as scoundrelly liars—that's the plain English of it. Who pays him this $200 or $400, or any other sum? Do you know anybody who ever contributed a cent to a fund intended to pay Bryan any sum whatever for making a political speech? If so, give name, address, date, etc. Hearsay won't go—we must have facts known to you. Now, put up or shut up!—Communicated.
